THE EDITOR SAYS—

When does a man or woman become childish and what pranks do they commit that puts them in their second childhood? It has come to us that we are in our second childhood because we were proud to wear our grey derby, because we now wear a sporty turned down brim straw hat, because we eat ice cream cones and candy with children. These things are true and we are proud of it. We have always liked candy and ice cream, have always liked to wear good clothes, was taught to keep our body clean. Just how shall we dress to keep out of the childhood class? An old man who is filthy in his habits, with his clothes, with his body, is a pitiful object, and we are glad that we still have mind enough and soap and water enough to keep clean, second childhood or not.

As Father Time comes our way and the three score and ten allotted to man is in sight, it is time to put the house in order. This means financially and morally in order that not so many bad things can be said after the passing to the unknown. If those who owe The Standard on subscription, for job work, or advertising, would promptly pay, we could set our earthly affairs in better order, and how the future condition can be judged will have to be left to the Supreme Ruler of the Universe. Do you take the hint?

One way for a business to continue is for the owner to have his life insured then pass peacefully away. At that, though, the insurance company might be operating under the moratorium.

The Directors of the Cape Teachers College have elected a President of that institution and a Dean to replace Mr. Serena and Mr. Douglas. Its close proximity to every section of Southeast Missouri should make it convenient for those seeking a higher education than they can receive in their local school to attend this college instead of going farther from home. To be sure, this all means if the courses sought are taught at the Cape Teachers' College. It is necessary to go elsewhere if teachers mathematics is required to give one the necessary points as hours required to teach. Here's hoping no petty strife will interfere with the success of the new officials.

A question that should have been discussed at the recent Southeast Missouri Press meeting is the value of county warrants that are being given in return for printing. Hardly an office in the State but what has a number of these warrants and need the money. While the Government has been so liberal in helping others, why wouldn't it be a good idea for the County Courts in Missouri to ask the R. F. C., or some other fountain of finance, for help to take up frozen warrants that will sooner or later be thawed.

Ray B. Lucas and H. C. Blanton left for Jefferson City Wednesday to do a bit of missionary work for a brother Democrat. Hope their mission will be successful as this part of the political vineyard has been sadly neglected.

Hydrox ice cream is a St. Louis product and is claimed to be the equal to any manufactured. To introduce same, coupons with 5 cents in coin would get a large helping at The Bijou. The editor risked 5 cents and was pleased with the results.

Dr. Anna Smith, of Poplar Bluff, has been sentenced to the penitentiary for three years at Doniphan, charged with helping a young school teacher out of an embarrassing condition, thereby causing her death. To love not wisely has sent many girls to their death rather than live in humiliation.

Bob Hollaway, a newspaper reporter, has been selected as secretary of the Public Service Commission at Jefferson City. This is a good selection of a mighty fine man. We were 100 per cent for him for Congress in the last primary, believing we needed more common sense and fewer lawyers in Congress.

In looking over the police court docket we find some funny things are done. An entry on May 29 showed two young men arrested and fined for fighting. Both asked for a few days in which to secure the money to pay off, which was granted. One kept his word and paid off, the other has failed to keep his promise. A commitment was placed in the hands of an officer of the city early in June to bring the young man in and it has never been served. What the country needs is officers who know no one when they break the law, and serve papers promptly.

Mr. Hitler is enforcing his extreme nationalism in Munich in a way that is not altogether acceptable to the Bavarians. When Bismarck united the German States, Bavaria had least to gain, and the hold of the German Empire on Bavaria is perhaps weaker than its grip on most of the other constituent States. If Bavaria should take it into its head to stage a walk-out, the united fatherland would have a real problem on its hands. That such an action would not lack external support is obvious. It is an unfavorable comment on Mr. Hitler's statesmanship that he did not prepare a mild and much-diluted prescription for South Germany.

MERCHANTS TAX BUGABOO LOOMS UP JULY FIRST

REVISED STATUTE WILL BE IN EFFECT

The annual bugaboo of Sikeston merchants, that of paying their occupation or merchants tax, again looms on the horizon, July 1 at which time all tax receipts for 1932-33 expire.

A downward revision of the scale was invoked on June 5 by the City Council which sat in session for four hours, and then held additional committee meetings in recess before the lengthy document of 135 sections finally received the signature of His Honor Mayor Fuchs. Just what the revised ordinance will return in the way of a total remains to be seen, but various "expert guess-timates" claim the new scale will mean a net loss in revenue of from $1000 to $1500.

The City Fathers have worked out a general classification of merchants under Section 86 which reads:

Section 86—A merchant is any person who shall deal in the selling of goods, wares and merchandise at any stand or place occupied for that purpose, and this definition shall be construed to mean all dealers in drugs, and medicines, lumber, jewelry, including watches and clocks, furniture, clothing, stoves, tinware and other hardware, book, music, musical instruments, fruits, millinery, toys, queensware, produce or grain, gas fixtures, gloves, plumbing goods, bicycles, boots and shoes, carpets, new and second hand machinery and implements, notions, optical goods, glassware, paint and wall paper, haberdashery or men's furnishing goods, harness saddlery and dealers in all other articles of merchandise, the taxation of which is not otherwise here-in provided for.

The scale calls for the following tax:

Valuation $250 and less, the sum of ..... $ 7.50
Valuation $251 and under $700, the sum of ..... 10.00
Valuation $701 and under $5000, the sum of ..... 15.00
Valuation $5001 and under $10,000, the sum of ..... 20.00
Valuation $10,000 and under $15,000, the sum of ..... 25.00
Valuation $15,001 and under $20,000, the sum of ..... 30.00
Valuation $20,001 and over, 50.00
The City Dads under the most recent decision have listed mercantile agents as being liable for a tax of $100 per year. A mercantile agent is defined to be any person having place of business in the City of Sikeston where orders for the sale and delivery of merchandise are taken, or who shall go from place to place within the city and shall take orders for the sale of goods, wares and merchandise for future delivery.

DR. ANNA SMITH SENTENCED FOR DEATH OF GIRL

STATE CHARGED ILLEGAL
OPERATION

Poplar Bluff, June 20.—According to the report of the American Republic newspaper here, Dr. Anna A. Smith of the Smith Hospital, Poplar Bluff, was found guilty of a charge of manslaughter, when tried in Circuit Court at Doniphan yesterday. She was sentenced to three years in the Missouri penitentiary, after a jury deliberation of 45 minutes. The case was taken to Ripley county on a change of venue and the verdict was returned at 10:10 last night, after a night court session.

Dr. Smith was tried in connection with the death of Katherine Arnold, 20, Parma school teacher, who died at the Brandon Hospital here October 22, last. Dr. Smith is alleged to have performed an illegal operation.

Sterling O. Richardson, who testified in behalf of the doctor, is charged with complicity in the case and is at liberty now under bond pending trial in Circuit Court here at the July term. Dr. J. Elliott Smith, husband of the convicted practitioner is also charged in the crime and is scheduled to be tried in July.

Dr. Smith has been charged three other times with performing illegal operations, but had not gone to trial previously.

David Blanton left this (Friday) morning for Willow Springs, Mo., where he will visit friends for several days.

ANNUAL RED CROSS SWIM SCHOOL TO START

ALL CLASSES TO BE AC-
COMMODATED

The annual school of instruction in swimming and life saving conducted by the Scott County Chapter, American Red Cross, will get underway this week Friday night at the Chaney Natatorium, according to Wilbur Ensor, instructor and examiner who anticipates a record enrollment.

Last year, said the instructor, 55 persons signed up for instruction and attended a total of 15 sessions. The record of achievement is even more startling.

Costs A Dime
A special rate of ten cents per session has been granted by J. N. Chaney, owner of the Natatorium, stated Wilbur Ensor today. "It will be necessary, however, for those participating in the Red Cross Swimming and Life Saving School to sign up for the entire course and actually take part before this rate will be effective."

Out of the 55 taking instruction, six passed the beginners test which calls for jumping into the water feet first, leveling off, swimming 25 feet and returning to the starting point.

Nineteen passed the swimmers test. The requirements in this case call for treading water for 30 seconds; floating motionless, making a plain front dive; swimming 100 yards; swimming 50 feet on back using legs only; making a surface dive into six or eight feet of water, recovering an object and witnessing a demonstration of artificial respiration.

Eleven members of the last year's class passed the Junior life saving requirements.

Members of the class, according to Mr. Ensor, ranged in age from 6 to 25 years.

Register Friday

Registration will take place Friday night at 7 o'clock at the pool. All entrants will be classified either as beginners, swimmers or advanced swimmers. This work of registration and classification will probably take up most of the first evening, so that the actual schedule of activities will not get underway until next week.

The new filtration and aereating plant installed at the municipal waterworks is a genuine aid in the work, commented Ensor, who stated that the water in the Natatorium was noticeably clearer. "You can see a nickel in nine feet of water," so that diving for objects will not be such a task," he stated.

All persons who have some knowledge of swimming and would like to learn and perfect the standard swimming strokes and learn to dive, are especially urged to avail themselves of this opportunity for free instruction.

Likewise all the requirements for Junior and Senior life saving will be taught. Those in the first class include all persons over 12 and under 17 years, and those in the senior division include all those over 17 years.

Stream of Golden Grain Moves Into Local Mill Market

The annual wheat harvest in this district is in full swing this week.

According to records of the Scott County Milling Company, the first farmer to reach the local market this year was Bill Simpson, living in the Richwoods community, north of Sikeston. Mr. Simpson's wheat was combined and graded Number Two.

The local market today (Thursday) was given as 73 cents.

Other growers in this district include Grover Baker, Murray Klein and Elton Proffer to mention a few.

In general, wheat is unusually dry at present. Fourteen consecutive days of unusually high temperatures combined with lack of moisture worked together to ripen the grain, very rapidly.

Sam Pikey of Conran started threshing last Tuesday on a 225-acre plot of wheat and sent the product to the local mill by truck.

EMERGENCY HOSPITAL

Mrs. W. N. Hennecke, who was operated on Thursday morning for appendicitis, is reported to be getting along nicely.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bethune Wednesday night, a son. Both mother and son doing nicely.

Bob Dempster drove to Jefferson City Thursday morning, where he will take the bar examination.

FLOOD CONTROL ON ST. FRANCIS IS PROPOSED

WOULD USE FOREST ARMY
UNDER NEW PLAN

Jefferson City, June 19.—"Very rapid substitution" of public works for relief is the goal of Missouri's Relief and Reconstruction Commission.

Returning from a conference in Washington with Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Director, Prof. Walter Burr, Missouri Relief Director, said today that it is the commission's purpose to encourage for Missouri "a very rapid substitution of public works for relief."

"With the summer on and food-stuff being plentifully produced in gardens, it should be possible in many areas of the State to greatly decrease and perhaps entirely discontinue relief, thus conserving our available relief funds as against possible serious needs for next winter," Prof. Burr said. "It is not intended that this shall cause any serious suffering since it will be in conjunction with the public works activities, including the immediate widespread activities in road construction in the State under the new grant by the public works act."

In addition to Prof. Burr, Wallace Crossley, chairman, and Dr. E. R. Cockrell of the Relief and Reconstruction Commission attended the Washington conference. Two projects were presented by the Missourians, one being for a flood control work on the St. Francis River. The other was for a large Federal forestry project in Missouri, five possible sites being suggested.

State Senator Langdon R. Jones of Kennett acted as spokesman in presenting the flood control project which, Prof. Burr said, was favorably received.

The State administrator of public work will be appointed within two weeks, Prof. Burr was notified today.

NEW MADRID WOMAN DROWNS IN MISSISSIPPI

DUAL TRAGEDY NARROWLY
AVERTED

New Madrid, June 21.—Mrs. Esten Staten, 26 years old of this city was accidentally drowned in the Mississippi River near here last Monday evening at 5 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Staten had gone to the river to fish. The woman decided to go swimming, and had been in the water only a short time when she called for help. It is believed that an undercurrent pulled her under. Her husband reached her and while attempting to rescue her was pulled under for the third time and almost drowned. He finally swam to shore and obtained assistance.

Searchers working with fish nets recovered the body of Mrs. Staten about thirty minutes later within ten feet of the spot where she was last seen.

She is survived by her mother, step father, Author Hendrix, a half brother, James, and three half sisters, Dolly, Pearl and Nora. Services were held at the family home Tuesday afternoon 2:00 o'clock with burial in the East Side Cemetery.

Bluff-Sikeston Golf Tilt Set For Next Sunday

One of the most important matches of the annual Southeast Missouri Round Robin tournament is scheduled for next Sunday afternoon when the Poplar Bluff Country Club lads meet Sikeston on the local links.

Poplar Bluff handed the Sikeston Club an A1 trouncing in May, and since then the Butler countians have played entirely in the win column. Sikeston has suffered only on defeat, and by sending the Bluffs away Sunday with a defeat a playoff for the district title is almost assured.

T. A. Wilson, local tourney chairman, has lined up a total of 26 players to accommodate any number of visitors from Poplar Bluff.

Mount Resigns Red Cross Job

F. E. Mount last Monday night tendered his resignation as Chairman of the Scott County Chapter American Red Cross, at a called meeting of county leaders.

Miss Marian G. Keith of the St. Louis office and Mrs. W. A. English and Miss Mary Abshear of Diehlstadt were the only attendants from the out-county districts, although personal invitations had been extended through letters and press notices. Four Sikeston board members in addition to Mr. Mount attended the meeting at the conclusion of which Art Wallhausen, H. E. Dudley and C. C. White were appointed members of a nominating committee and charged with the selection of a new chairman to fill the unexpired term. Their selection is being made in recess.

Miss Keith admonished members of the committee to make their selection only after very careful consideration. "Heretofore," stated this National Red Cross worker, "all work in this district has been pointed toward emergency relief. The Chapter was organized under such conditions . . . specifically the flood of 1927, and since that time activities have been centered upon emergency relief of one kind or another." She paid a high compliment to Mr. Mount, but stated that from now on the Chapter should be organized on a "normal, peace-time basis to carry out the program of Home Service, Junior Red Cross work, Life Saving, Public Information, Volunteer service and public welfare." "If that is done," she stated, "the work will be made much more pleasant for the executive or chairman in charge."

Mrs. Kenneth Dodson and baby of Sedalia and Haskel Mouser of South Bend, Ind., who spent a week here visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Mouser and family, left Monday for their respective homes. Miss Jewel Mouser accompanied her brother home and later both will go to Chicago, to attend the World's Fair.

Word from John Wood yesterday morning to his children, stated that Mrs. Wood was getting along fine at that writing.

PARKER AND MYERS HEAD CAPE SCHOOL

REGENTS DRAFT SUCCESSORS
TO SERENA AND DOUGLASS

Cape Girardeau, June 21.—Dr. W. Parker, of Alva, Okla., was elected president of the Southeast Missouri Teachers College at Cape Girardeau by the Board of Regents meeting at the college late yesterday. Announcement of the appointment was made about 7 p. m.

Vest C. Myers, former teacher at Will Mayfield College, Marble Hill, and more recently identified with a publishing company at Chicago in an editorial capacity was named dean.

The two men will succeed Jos. A. Serena, president and R. S. Douglas, dean, of the teachers college, who were not re-elected by the board at its meeting in May.

"We believe it was a happy solution of our affairs," said one member of the Board of Regents. "We were lucky that Mr. Myers accepted the office of dean, and inasmuch as Dr. Parker is 44 and Myers is 43 years old, they both have many years of active service ahead of them."

Dr. Parker is president of the Northwest Teachers College at Alva, Okla., being ousted by Gov. Wm. H. Murray, who also moved out a number of other educators in a "new deal" for higher education in that State. Four presidents of State colleges were removed in that State by Governor "Alfalfa" Bill.

Dr. Parker issued a short statement last night in which he said he was "very happy at the opportunity to return to Missouri, where most of my educational work has been done."

At Warrensburg.

He was for 13 years connected with the Warrensburg Teachers College, being professor of English and later dean of the faculty.

Prof. Myers is one of the most widely known educators in this district. A graduate of the Teachers College in 1919 when he received a B. S. Degree, he later took his Master's degree from Columbia University. He is a native of Bollinger county.

Dr. Parker is married and has three sons and a daughter. He is a writer of some distinction, having contributed to a number of national educational journals.

The board of regents elected all members of the faculty except the president and dean at the meeting in May.—American Republic.

COTTON REDUCTION PLAN TO BE OUTLINED FOR FARMERS NEXT WEEK

Furry Calls Meeting at High School
Gym for Monday or Tuesday to
Perfect Organization

COUNTY REDUCTION IS 30 PCT.

The acreage reduction plan for cotton under the Agricultural Adjustment Act which is planned to begin Monday, June 26th will call for a reduction in the present cotton acreage in Scott County of 4050 acres according to County Agent Furry, this is equivalent to a 30% reduction in the acreage of the average of the past five years.

In this campaign Missouri cotton producers will be asked to sign contracts offering to lease a definite amount of their acreage to Secretary Wallace. The Secretary is placing upon the cotton producers themselves the final responsibility for making effective the Government's plan for retiring production equivalent to two million bales of cotton. Unless the planters through the cotton belt volunteer a reduction in acreage sufficient to accomplish this purpose, the Government may abandon its plan of cotton relief.

To growers who volunteer to reduce their acreage two plans will be offered; First, a cash payment in consideration of co-operation, based on the productivity of the land yielding on the average around 100 pounds of lint cotton an acre to $12 for land yielding on the average 275 pounds or more, an acre plus an option on Government-held cotton in an amount equal to that which the producer agrees to retire from production. The options will be offered at 6 a pound, nearly 3 cents below the current market price.

The second plan provides for a cash benefit without the cotton option, the amount of the benefit or rental to be on an acre basis, to range from $7 for land yielding from 100 to 124 pounds an acre to $20 for land yielding 275 pounds or more an acre.

The comparative terms offered in the two plans on lands of varying productive capacity are shown more clearly in the following table:

Range in Yield Per Acre

100 to 124 lbs. .... $ 6.00 $ 7.00

125 to 149 lbs. .... 7.00 9.00

150 to 174 lbs. .... 8.00 11.00

175 to 224 lbs. .... 10.00 14.00

225 to 275 lbs. .... 11.00 17.00

Over 275 lbs. .... 12.00 20.00

Rental per acre, with option

Rental per acre, without option

The sliding scale of cash rental is based on the acre yield of the land taken out of production.

For the opening of the campaign Monday morning, June 26, the Agricultural Extension Service and the U. S. Department of Agriculture leaders of Missouri's cotton counties will have in readiness a working organization including one local committeeman for every hundred farmers. In each county these men, selected locally, will constitute the Control Committee, which will be assisted by a county Agricultural Extension Service and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

As the work of interviewing the planters and the signing of contracts proceeds next week, daily reports of the acreage withdrawn from production in each county will be wired to the State office of Agricultural Extension Service at Columbia, and thence daily totals for the State will in turn be wired to Secretary Wallace at Washington.

When the producers sign a voluntary agreement it will constitute an irrevocable offer for a limited, specified period during which the Secretary may accept or reject it. His intention is to accept offers which will assure the largest possible reduction in this year's crop, and secondly to distribute the benefits uniformly as far as possible over the entire cotton belt.

After the offers have been acted upon by Wallace and his aides a formal notice will be issued to those whose signed agreements have been accepted.

It then will be the duty of each to take out of production the acreage covered, by destroying it. Replanting of the land which would be moved off the farm will not be permitted, but feed for livestock may be produced.

County Agent Furry plans to hold a meeting at the high school gymnasium at Sikeston, next Monday or Tuesday, at which time he is calling in land owners, overseers and tenants who have cotton on their farms to explain the plan and to get organized in Scott County to handle this work. All cotton growers are urged to be present at this meeting. Announcements of this meeting will be mailed to cotton growers in Scott County, Friday, June 23. It is to be hoped that Scott County farmers will take advantage of this proposition and show that they are willing to co-operate in an effort to establish better prices for their cotton.

Ouster Suit Now In Final Stage Is Belief

Roger Bailey, special attorney of the City of Sikeston, who has been actively engaged in representing this city in ouster proceedings, directed against the Missouri Utilities Company is this week preparing a reply brief for presentation to the Public Service Commission of Missouri, it was stated today.

Attorneys for the Utilities Company last Monday filed additional information with the Commission, completing the record of a hearing conducted by the Commission on June 2. At that time, both sides were represented by attorney, and arguments pro and con were heard.

At that time the Commission authorized an extension of time to the Utilities Company, and a ten-day grant for a reply to that petition on the part of Attorney Bailey.

In its final analysis the completion of Bailey's reply brief completes the formal argument. The next step rests entirely with the Commission, local attorneys point out.

Mrs. Hubert Boyer returned from St. Louis Sunday, where she had been to a hospital for observation. The report is very satisfactory. Mary Kathryn Boyer, the young daughter, is threatened with appendicitis and is being kept in ice packs to avoid an operation.

SIKESTON BOYS' BAND IS BEGUN TUESDAY NIGHT

NINETEEN LADS SIGNIFY
INTENTION

A boys' band for Sikeston is practically assured following a meeting at the Armory Tuesday night, stated Instructor Carl C. Sergeant, who is attempting to organize such a group here.

Ten youngsters appeared ready for action, he stated, and nine others signified their intention of joining the band next week, Tuesday, the next regular meeting night. "This," he said, "gives us a group of nineteen or twenty boys who really wish to get together and devote their time and talent to learning a band instrument and forming a live wire boys' band."

Mr. Sergeant has been unusually successful in organizing similar bands, and predicts a local group of at least 30 pieces even during vacation months.

Members of the Henry Meldrum Post of the American Legion drum and bugle corps have contacted Mr. Sergeant with a proposition to instruct members of that organization. The Legionnaires have been "in the money" several times in various State and district contests, but in each instance the musical repertoire, or lack of it, prevented classification in the top group. Sergeant has signified his willingness to help the Legionnaires in that respect, and is assured of their moral and actual support in building a boys' band.

"I have never worked in a town before in which civic organizations seemed as willing to back a movement" stated this master musician in commenting upon his reception here.

Members of the band will meet at the Armory again next Tuesday night, 7:30 o'clock in order to perfect the organization. All boys with any musical ability whatever are requested to attend, and lend their assistance to the movement.

STATE OFFERS $300
REWARD FOR SLAYERS
OF FOUR OFFICERS

Jefferson City, June 21. A State reward of $300 each for the apprehension and conviction of the "slayer or slayers" of two Kansas City detectives, a Federal Department of Justice agent and the McAlester, Okla., chief of police at Kansas City Saturday, was announced today by Gov. Park. The reward offer is good for a year and will be paid by the State on final conviction.

Mrs. Edwin Eggers and son of Elmwood, Neb., arrived Thursday to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Elkins.

NEW FARM LOAN ASSOCIATION IS READY TO ACT

WELTECKE HEADS "BANK" TO
REFINANCE DEBTS

The Sikeston National Farm Loan Association with offices in the Peoples Bank Building, this city, is ready to function, according to Roscoe H. Weltecke, president and H. A. Smith, secretary and treasurer.

The new association was organized Tuesday at a meeting of land owners and farmers in the Chamber of Commerce rooms here, with O. J. Lloyd, vice-president and secretary of the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis present to explain the form of operation, and to assist with the work of organizing. The National Farm Loan Association operates through the Federal Land Bank, it was pointed out.

The following officers were selected: Roscoe H. Weltecke, local lumber dealer, president; Louis Dumey, farmer, vice-president, and H. A. Smith, secretary and treasurer. The directors selected a loan committee of three naming W. H. Sikes investigator for this group.

Directors of the organization who will serve until January, 1934 follow: Judge J. P. LaRue of Essex, John L. Crutcher of Essex, Albert J. Rushing of Bertrand, Louis Dumey and Roscoe H. Weltecke of Sikeston.

The Farm Loan Association is now ready to take applications for farm loans in this district which embraces all of Scott, Stoddard, Mississippi and two north townships in New Madrid County. Offices of the secretary are maintained in the Peoples Bank Building, corner of Center and North New Madrid Streets.

ANOTHER GAS HIKE

Gasoline prices advanced another cent per gallon Wednesday morning at each of the 28 stations of major companies operating in Sikeston. The new price followed closely upon two fractional advances of one-half cent each. The first hike was prompted by the new Federal gasoline tax, and the latter benefitted oil companies, making the rate effective Wednesday morning 12.8 cents for "depression" gasoline, 13.3 cents for regular, and 16.3 for high test.

Interested people are attempting a 61 Highway organization to influence traffic from Louisiana, Texas and other Southwest States to use this highway to points north and east. The reason is plain. The more traffic over 61, the more sale of oil, repairs, food, etc., necessary along the route. West Memphis, Ark., is the point from which traffic is routed either over 51 north on the east side of the Mississippi River or over 61 on the west side. The AAA Association is using its influence to send traffic over 51 for the reason a speed trap is reported at one point in Arkansas and at Sikeston, where constables cause arrests. Recently Brown Jewell constable at Sikeston, followed three boys from Texas to within four miles of Benton in order to make an arrest and they were taken before Squire Gupton at Morley and paid something like $15 for reckless driving. Jewell said they were not driving on the right side of the black line. Jewell likewise said he followed a car into Benton and arrested the driver for speeding. This leads to the question of whether or not Constable Jewell did not follow these cars north of Sikeston in order to watch and see if they did not do something in order to make an arrest for the fee he would receive.

POLITICAL MUSHWA FROM JEFFERSON CITY

Wilbur C. Buford of Ellington, State Game and Fish Commissioner, has been appointed by the United States Department of Agriculture as procurement officer for federal conservation projects in this State. Commissioner Buford, who will have charge of the purchase of all supplies and equipment for the conservation camps, will be assisted by Joe E. Green of Centralia, chief of wardens of the game and fish bureau. Buford, who is the youngest game and fish commissioner in Missouri history, has entered into his new work with a spirit that is attracting wide attention. He is devoting virtually sixteen hours daily to his various duties and is amply justifying his appointment by Governor Park. Gene Preston, Norborne newspaper editor, who was recently named as secretary of the department, is also working hard and taking his new duties seriously. Since his appointment he has visited many of the State parks in various sections and is editing a department news letter each week that is far superior to those of other years.

Mrs. Ralph P. Swofford of Kansas City, secretary of the Missouri Democratic State Committee and for many years an outstanding Democratic woman organizer, has been rewarded with a federal position by President Roosevelt. Mrs. Swofford, who has been in charge of State Democratic headquarters at Columbia since the last campaign, is to be a member of the United States Employee's Compensation Commission, succeeding Mrs. Bessie P. Brueggeman of St. Louis. She will receive an annual salary of $8000 and will be required to live in Washington. Democratic women of Missouri will be pleased at the recognition accorded Mrs. Swofford, who possesses the ability and experience to fill the position in a commendable way. She organized the Women's Jeffersonian Democratic Club in Kansas City in 1924, which order now has a membership in excess of 700 and is active in every campaign.

Governor Guy B. Park in a recent address before the annual convention of the Missouri Disciples of Christ at Moberly asserted that the "law books could be burned, the courts turned into factories and the police discharged if mankind would observe the rules of conduct prescribed by the Ten Commandments." Gov. Park, who has been an active member of the Christian church for years, also said: "As a man of the world who has been both good and bad, I say to you that the only real pleasures of this life, the only real good, genuine successes and great achievements, may be obtained only by a faithful following of the precepts and examples of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ." It was the chief executive's first lay sermon and it won for him a host of admirers and friends, especially among the clergy of the State.

Missourians like their beer and the revenue from its sale is pouring into the State coffers at Jefferson City. The May report of Charles H. Manville, pure food and drug commissioner, discloses that a total of 1,911,793 gallons of beer were consumed in the State during that period. And the inspection tax of one cent per gallon brought in $19,117.93 of revenue in the month. Seven breweries now have permits to operate in Missouri and permits are expected to be issued to three or four other companies in the near future.

Eppa F. Elliott of Mexico, for many years circuit clerk of Audrain County, is the new clerk of the Missouri Supreme Court, having been elected to that position early this month. Mr. Elliott, who was chosen for a term of six years, has long been prominent in Democratic politics in Central Missouri and is eminently qualified and deserving in every respect. During the several terms that he served as circuit clerk in Audrain he became thoroughly acquainted with court procedure and the experience gained in that period will be of great value in his new office. He will succeed Jacob D. Allen of Butler, clerk of the court for more than twenty-three years, who was not a candidate for re-election. "Capt." Allen, as he is generally known over the State, has rendered the Supreme Court loyal and satisfactory service and his retirement will be regretted by all. The appointment of Elliott, however, is regarded as an excellent one and both the new clerk and the justices of the high State tribunal are deserving of congratulations.

The resignation of John H. Porter of St. Louis as a member of the Missouri Public Service Commission, which was announced recently, will be a source of genuine regret to Missourians. Judge Porter, as he is widely known, has been connected with the commission for more than five years and has rendered the State and its people able and conscientious service. During the Caulfield administration he was reappointed for a term ending in April, 1937, but elected to resign in order to enter private business in St. Louis, where he will soon open an engineering office. A Democrat who has always contributed generously of his time and means for the advancement of his party and a public official who has never swerved from the path of duty and conscience, his resignation is a distinct loss both to Missouri and to the Democratic party.

(Floyd C. Shoemaker)

It is now well over three quarters of a century since the will of Bryan Mullanphy, circuit judge and mayor of St. Louis, was admitted to probate in St. Louis on June 19, 1851, the anniversary of which recurs this week. But unlike most wills, this one has been a storm center of legal controversy from that day in 1851 until the present. Bryan Mullanphy's will created what became the Mullanphy Emigrant Relief Fund, which has caused almost continuous legal suits, and has attracted attention throughout the United States.

In 1847, Bryan Mullanphy, climbing a notable career as a lawyer and judge in St. Louis, was elected mayor of the city with almost unparalleled unanimity. The years he was in office saw great numbers of emigrants passing through St. Louis to the West, some to settle land, and others to join the rush to the gold fields of California. Cholera was a great scourge to these emigrants, and often in their camps about St. Louis, hundreds of poor travelers would be prostrated with disease.

With cholera raging at its worst, Bryan Mullanphy visited the camps of the emigrants daily, helping the unfortunates as best he could. It was at this time that he saw at first hand the needs of dire poverty, which his own wealth had never subjected him to. Probably as he helped the suffering emigrants, the thought came to him how he might dispose of a part of his wealth.

The story is that on August 31, 1849, Mullanphy asked a friend to take a social drink with him. The two entered a saloon and while drinking, the mayor asked the proprietor for a piece of writing paper. None could be found, but Mullanphy picked up a book and tearing out the fly-leaf, proceeded to write his last will and testament. In it he stipulated that he left one-third of his property to the city of St. Louis in trust, to be used to furnish relief to poor emigrants to the West.

Shortly after this, Bryan Mullanphy died at St. Louis on June 15, 1851, at the age of only forty-two years. Mullanphy's heirs tried to have the part of the will creating the trust set aside on the grounds that the city was incompetent to take the trust, and that the will was void, by reason of uncertainty as to whom the beneficiaries were. The attempt failed, and the city received in trust, property valued then at approximately $500,000, but it was not put to work until after the beginning of the Civil War.

The career of the Mullanphy Emigrant Relief fund has been long beset by court battles, sometimes by Mullanphy's heirs, sometimes by the city itself, and even by both together. The whole battle has been vastly complicated by the fact that westward emigration has practically ceased. One of the latest battles to set aside the will was in 1930, with approximately 200 heirs eligible to a possible division of the fund. The fund then amounted to more than $1,000,000.

Bryan Mullanphy was the son of John Mullanphy, the first Missouri millionaire. Bryant was the only son of the family, born at Baltimore in 1809, but he had seven sisters. The boy was educated in France and England and came to St. Louis where he studied law and was admitted to the bar. It is said that the father expected him to return from Europe a highly polished gentleman. But on the way home up the river from New Orleans the boat was stopped by floating ice and the passengers had to land and proceed by road to St. Louis. Bryant bought a mule to make the journey, but arrived in St. Louis covered from head to foot with mud. The father was so disappointed with his appearance that he left the son out of his will. The sisters, however, gave Bryant an equal share.

Many are the stories in St. Louis records of the eccentricities of Bryan Mullanphy. He is pictured as extremely careless in dress. At times he walked the streets playing a banjo to the wonderment of the observers. But for all his eccentric ways, particularly the unusual ways in which he dispensed charity, he was a brilliant and gifted man. It is claimed that he studied law by himself without entering a lawyer's office for guidance, and though not an eloquent orator, he was a fluent and impressive speaker.

Mullanphy was a studious man of robust health. His great wealth did not prevent him from actively practicing law in St. Louis, St. Charles, Franklin, Washington and Jefferson counties. In 1840 he was elected judge of the St. Louis Circuit Court, which office he held until 1844. Judge Mullanphy was never married.

Dwight H. Brown is rendering 24-hour service every day of the year. An official of the department is kept on duty each night so that police officials may obtain information relative to any automobile license number at any hour. The desired information may be secured in a minute's time and this new service will be of great aid and assistance to peace authorities in the apprehension of law violators who employ motor cars in their trade. Secretary Brown is being generally commended over the State for inaugurating this all-time service.

Col. Marvin Casteel, the new superintendent of the State Highway Patrol, is going to appear regularly in the regular uniform of members of his organization. Col. Casteel takes the position that it will improve the morale of the patrol if he is attired in uniform instead of civilian clothes, the custom of his predecessor. Casteel has also vetoed the idea of new patrol machines of black and white, holding that they would be both too conspicuous on the highways and that such colors would make it appear as if the patrol were "showing off." Missouri can be proud that it has at the head of its State police a level-headed young war veteran of dynamic personality, keen judgment and unusual ability. The highway patrol is expected to make marked advancement under his jurisdiction.

Cards Take Game From Paragould Sunday 8 to 2

Charleston, June 18.—The Charleston Cardinals won their sixth straight and their seventh victory out of eight starts, here this afternoon, winning over the Paragould, Ark., All-Stars, 8-2.

Starting off the game with six runs in their half of the first inning, the Cardinals played air-tight ball until the seventh and eighth inning, when the visitors tallied one run in each stanza. In the seventh an error, coupled with two stolen bases, and a single accounted for the first run. In the eighth, a triple, and an infield out caused the second run for the visitors.

For Charleston, four bases on balls, a single, error and triple by Myers with the bases loaded, accounted for six runs. In the fifth an error and two singles scored the other two runs.

Ault started out the mound for Charleston and allowed one run, two hits, walked three men, hit one, and struck out three batters in seven innings. This is his sixth victory of the season against no defeats. May finished the game and allowed one run, two hits, struck out two, walked one. Ault was pulled out of several holes by twin killings, Charleston making three. Faulkner, Arkansas pitcher, allowed 7 hits, 8 runs, walked 4, struck out 7 and aided by one doubled play.

Munger, center fielder for Charleston, was the leading hitter, getting two singles out of four times at the plate. Myers, left fielder tripled with the bases loaded. Mast, Hearnese, Hudson and Ault got the other Charleston hits. Yantiz and McDonald, for the visitors, each tripled, and Wright and Faulkner singled for the Paragould hits.

As I See It

—By Art L. Wallhausen

Ben Garavelli, known throughout the Middle West as a restaurateur, and more particularly in St. Louis by city folk and country visitors alike, for tasty and appetizing dishes, is dead. Ben died Monday at the age of 52 years.

Especially delicious are two items on the Garavelli menu, tomato soup and ravioli.

Success magazines could use this famous Italian as the basis of an interesting article. Coming to this country as a penniless immigrant about thirty years ago, he remained in New York for about fifteen years, then came to St. Louis and joined his brothers, Charles and Joseph in the business of serving good food in an excellent manner.

Our research department reports that Sikeston has eight barber shops and a total of 24 men behind the chairs. This count does not include another half dozen female beauty shops, with their array of talented snippers, masseurs, dyers, tinters and what nots.

The faults of a one-man organization are very much in evidence just now. No group should be organized along that line for when the leader steps down there is nobody, not even a skeleton to rattle around and take up the work.

An efficient organization will not miss seriously any particular unit. Sikeston civic and social groups should keep that in mind. And another thing to dodge is not to encourage the "Let George Do It Idea." A committee of ten should be able to accomplish ten times as much as a committee of one. And will if properly trained and instructed.

People are pretty much alike. Each one likes to do a specific task and to be held responsible for its successful completion.

The job, therefore, of a chairman is to DIRECT, to see that everyone in an organization has something to do, and then to keep everlastingly on his or her trail to see that it is properly done.

Speaking of beer. Wonder why the ballyhoo for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment hasn't been quite as great lately. Can it be that the folks have had their egotistical desires to obtain something verboten satisfied.

Beer has been blacklisted. Now the 3.2 stuff is a reality. That satisfied lots of people whether they like beer or not.

And then again the people have shown the lawmakers who is running the country. That helps also.

Two years ago this columnist predicted that the French War debt would not be paid willingly.

History teaches us a lot of things besides the fact? ? ? of American invincibility on land or sea.

For one thing, a study of diplomatic relationships, which is so often overlooked in the nationalistic, ballyhoo type history taught in the average high school, is the fact that European diplomacy and American hard-headed business differs materially.

Those boys have long ago learned many tricks of evasion. They will not pay, and they will advance hundreds of arguments along that line. They did not intend to pay when they borrowed the money.

Read your history. Right now France intimates that she may assume a position of economic isolation unless the American dollar is pegged.

Her diplomats say that after informing us that she will not pay the war debt.

Suppose some of the dries will be very much elated to hear that three beer permits were revoked because of the owners selling beer more than 3.2 content. Some of our local dries will be more than elated for one of the violators was from Caruthersville. Personally, we're ashamed of him. Imagine getting a permit to sell beverages of more than 3.2 when it has been done for nothing. tsh, tsh.

Jos. L. Matthews was quite exercised not long ago when he quoted one of his friends as saying that he (J. L.) intended to install a large exhaust fan in the armory.

Jos. informed us privately, and in no uncertain terms, that he would have the building rewired for additional fans.

We notice with a great amount of comfort and satisfaction, that the Armory has been rewired . . . and how. Outlets sufficient to accommodate about 24 or 30 fans are in place . . . and a big paddle fan, ceiling type, graces the central position of the Armory ceiling.

We still think a 36-inch fan would help a lot!

Years ago a city statute provided that each ordinance must be read by the clerk at each of three consecutive meetings.

That was done for the obvious reason of preventing the "railroad-

through" of some particular bit of legislation.

Part of that statute still remains. Under the ritual of business the clerk must drone through three readings at the SAME sessions, and when the ordinance in question happens to run eight, ten or fifteen typewritten pages—well it is very hard on the nerves of the clerk and the patience of his listeners.

Once is plenty unless the old system of waiting three months, or three consecutive meetings is to be invoked again.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Mouser and children, Miss Jewell and Laverne, of this city, Haskell of South Bend, Ind., and Mrs. Kenneth Dodson and baby of Sedalia, visited with relatives at Fredericktown, Sunday.

Monroe Cravens and family moved Wednesday to one of Ed Fuchs' houses on Matthews avenue. Charlie Mitchell and family will move to the Mitchell property vacated by Mr. Cravens.

Miss June Marshall is working at McKnight-Keaton Grocery Co., beginning her duties Monday.

A $2.00 Dinner for 6

ALL the way from tomato juice to demi-tasse with steak and shoe-string potatoes, buttered broccoli and bread and butter and a delicious dessert sandwiched in between—that's what this dinner, which will cost an average of a little more than thirty-three cents a person in most communities, offers. Here's the menu:

Iced Tomato Juice 17¢
Minute Steak 60¢
Shoe-String Potatoes 10¢
Buttered Broccoli 50¢
Apricot Cream Dessert 48¢
Bread and Butter 10¢
Demi-tasse 5¢

And here are the recipes for the dishes which are not familiar to everyone:

Iced Tomato Juice: Mix together the contents of two 12½

ounce cans tomato juice, salt and pepper to taste, two teaspoons sugar, a few drops Worcestershire sauce and a few drops tobacco sauce, and chill thoroughly.

Apricot Cream Dessert: Beat one cup cream, and add one-third cup confectioner's sugar, a few drops of almond flavoring and one-fourth cup chopped nuts. Break up four vanilla wafers and add, and put in the refrigerator tray for several hours. Scoop out onto dessert plates, and lay the drained apricots from a No. 2 can around the base.

If desired, a fruit cocktail can be substituted for the tomato juice. Use the syrup from the canned apricots, pep up with lemon juice and add a couple of diced bananas and a diced apple to make enough for six.

price and shop conditions do not appear to be beyond its contemplation. What the Senate disposed of almost as a matter of routine on a hot June night in 1933, may be looked back upon as the most important piece of legislation of the decade, of the century, or even of the entire history of legislative enactment in America.

Members of the Morgan firm are serving as directors in more than eighty-five corporations. The unemployment fog still hangs in the valleys, but the mountain tops seem to be reasonably clear.

It seems as though the chief business of the World Economic Conference was to persuade the United States that it would have to accept ten per cent or nothing.

There is a grim sternness to be read between the lines of the account of a plane crash at Chicago, which took a toll of seven lives.

Man covers acres of ground with exhibition buildings to show what he has accomplished, but the elements sprinkle them with airplane wreckage as a none too gentle reminder that he still has something to learn.

Miss Dorothy Walker is visiting with Miss Della Hunt of St. Louis this week. She is expected home, Sunday.

CHAPTER XXVII

As the car stopped at the curb in front of Blondie's apartment, she said:

"Come on up."

"All right—but just for a minute," and Lurline followed her out.

"That's just how long I'll be," quietly from Blondie.

"What are you talking about?"

"You'll see," Blondie's answer was noncommittal as she stepped into the elevator.

Looking at her grimly determined face Lurline knew it was no time to ask questions. They rode to the roof in silence. Blondie hurried to the door of her penthouse and threw it wide open. A blast of loud music and laughter mingled with wild music greeted them. For just an instant Blondie stood listening, then she went in, followed by Lurline.

Loud cheers welcomed the two girls as they entered the drawing room. Drinks were quickly poured and offered with much banter. Lurline accepted gayly. Blondie pushed her away without a smile and looked nastily around the room.

Catching sight of Mortimer Pratt over in a corner of the room talking to two girls, she crossed directly to him. Blondie's attitude was so out of spirit with the party, her face so ominously determined, that as she moved across the large room a sudden hush enveloped the little groups, and they watched in silence.

As she approached Pratt placed his glass on a nearby table and turned to her smiling.

"May I see you alone for a moment?" Blondie asked, ignoring his greeting.

"Of course, sweetheart," and he followed her out of the room. Leading the way to her bedroom Blondie waited for him to close the door.

"You've been awfully nice to me," she said, without emotion. "But I can't go on. I—I'm through with all this."

Mortimer Pratt was a little bit amazed. "Why, I thought you'd like a little quiet after."

"It isn't that," she interrupted. Then, calmly and finally, "I'm through with it all—now or any other time. I can't go on any longer. I appreciate that you're doing it, and thank you. But I'm leaving all this—leaving now."

Pratt looked at her anxiously. "You can't mean that. You're just upset by."

"Everything. There's no use—I realize it now. I'm going, that's all." She met his gaze squarely. He looked at her intently, then shrugged, refusing to take her seriously.

"Well, let's not discuss it now," with a little smile. "Come on and join the party." He turned without waiting for a reply. As he reached the door, Blondie called:

"Goodbye."

He turned, grinning broadly. "I'll be waiting for you," and closed the door.

For a moment Blondie stood looking thoughtfully at the door. Then she turned, rang for the maid, and stepped over to the dressing table.

Quickly crossing the room she stood before an oil painting. Lifting it from the wall, she slipped its prop into place and turned the dial on a small safe. Undoing it, she took out an exquisite jewel case and returned to the dressing table.

Opening a secret drawer she took out several pieces of jewelry. Then she opened the jewel case, disclosing precious diamonds, rubies and emeralds set in platinum rings, bracelets and pins. Almost carelessly she dropped the jewelry in her hands into the case. Then she unclasped the string of pearls around her neck, and put it in the jewel case drawer containing several other necklaces. Quickly she took off her diamond wrist watch and laid it on top of the pearls. Then she hurried across the room, replaced the case, locked the safe and

(By Art L. Wallhausen)

The Man About Town this week saw several Sikestonians sprinkling lawns. In each case from six to a dozen neighborhood youngsters rallied round and stood for some time under the cooling spray.

That brings up a project which we would like to delegate to the Lions Club, and call to the attention of the City Fathers.

Why not construct two sprinkling devices to be hooked to fire plugs so that youngsters in Dog Trot, Frisco, the Shoe Factory Addition, and Northeast section can cool off three or four times a week? The cost would be small and boyhood the response would be great.

Lon Swanner has stated to this scribe that his department could furnish water free because plugs have to be flushed anyway. Now, you Lions, get busy. A gang of kids can be made happy. Doc Limbaugh stated this morning that some of his larger Scouts might be talked into supervising the sprinklers from time to time.

Gasoline has advanced two cents per gallon during the past week. One-half cent of that amount goes into the Federal treasury in the form of a tax payment. One and one-half cent goes to enrich oil companies.

During the past year every major oil company cancelled every retail contract in the country. The cry was "We can't make it." The contracts were rewritten and the small and large retailer, known ordinarily as filling station operators, sold gasoline at one-half cent per gallon less, speaking now of profit.

With this cut to the retailer came also a series of cuts to tank wagon men, drivers and others until one of the boys expressed his opinion thusly: "I didn't mind taking one cut after another until I am just about breaking even, but I'll be so and so if I'm gonna borrow money and pay interest to pay 'em for the privilege of working."

That ladies and gentlemen are our private analysis of the gasoline industry.

The speech of the incoming Lions President was short and to the point Wednesday night. It had to be. His vocabulary was cut in swain. There were ladies present!

BLONDIE of the FOLLIES

FRANCES MARION

By FRANCES MARION
From Which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Has Made a Thrilling Motion Picture Starring Marion Davies.

CHAPTER XXVIII

Blondie hesitated just long enough in front of Child's restaurant to buy an evening paper. Tucking it under her arm she pushed through the swinging doors into the bright lights. With a little smile she acknowledged the greeting of the cashier, and walked across the dining room to her favorite table in the far corner.

"Good evening," Miss McClune, said the waitress, handing her a menu. "Been warm today, hasn't it?"

"Yes . . . very," replied Blondie, as she studied the menu. "Some friends of mine went to the Follies last night and saw your specialty number. They raved about it. Said you did those intricate steps so easy . . ."

"Thanks . . . they were very kind."

"They said there must be some trick to it," the waitress interrupted. "But I told 'em how well I knew you and how hard you worked . . ."

Blondie looked up questioningly, then gave her order quickly. As the waitress went toward the kitchen Blondie looked after her quizzically.

Well, after all, she was right. Blondie thought with a faint smile. Those were the people who knew Blondie McClune of the Follies best.

Blondie noticed that the other girls were nearly dressed for the first number these days—waitresses, taxicab drivers, hotel clerks and bell boys.

For weeks now Blondie had done nothing but work, eat and sleep. Up in the morning and to the dancing teachers—into a practice suit, then dance, dance, dance, until noon. A shower and into Child's for a sandwich and the relaxation afforded by a hard chair. Then back to the practice suit and dance floor until late afternoon.

Cocktail time with its old parties found Blondie stretched out in her little hotel bedroom, dead tired, but a little happy because she had made some progress that day. Then came the show, which Blondie was taking very seriously and working hard in every number.

Tonight, as Blondie unfolded her newspaper and spread it out on the table, she was not quite so tired. Her specialty number, which she had worked so hard to perfect and talked so hard to get into the show, was going over. Some of the critics had even given it special mention in their columns. Then when the manager admitted it was good by giving her a raise Blondie knew her first happiness in a long time. That extra money every week meant more for the family and a few little luxuries for Blondie. Somewhat reluctantly she had indulged in one of them today—a taxicab ride through Central Park.

Almost automatically Blondie ate her soup, reading the headlines of the paper propped up before her. Suddenly her eyes opened wide, a spoonful of soup half way between the bowl and her mouth.

"Prominent Broker to Wed. Larry Belmont sailing tonight for Europe. Will Marry Eileen Cabot, Boston debutante, in Paris."

It was a short story and Blondie read it avidly. The spoonful of soup never reached her mouth. She pushed the dish away and sat staring at the paper with unseeing eyes.

So Larry was going to be married . . . going away tonight . . . Europe. Blondie's mind was racing, her face flushed. Well, what of it? He deserved happiness . . . what would Lurline say now? Why Lurline . . . what about Blondie?

As Blondie started to think of herself the old pain came, twisting at her heart. Oh, why hadn't she gone to Larry instead of battling it out alone? . . . told him she loved him that she wanted to get away from the gay life just as much as he did . . . but there was Lurline . . . always Lurline. Well, it was too late now . . . too late.

Blondie just nibbled at the food the waitress brought. Dry sobs clutched at her throat. Even if it was too late for Larry, it was never too late for Pratt! Larry and Pratt! . . . her two men . . . so alike and yet so different. Blondie thought so different to her, anyway. Why hadn't she listened to Pratt and gone back? . . . Why hadn't she accepted that exquisite creation from Cartier's he had had made for her . . . why? Blondie asked herself now, but she knew . . . she knew why then, and she knew she would do the same thing again! It wasn't the life for her, but Larry . . .

Blondie's mind was in a whirl as she asked for her check and hurried to the cashier's desk. She paid her bill and walked to the theatre—thinking, thinking, thinking.

In the dressing room she noticed that the other girls were nearly dressed for the first number. She had spent more time over her dinner than she thought! Except for the briefest of greetings Blondie spoke to no one. She noticed that Lurline was in her place across the room, but she didn't attempt to talk to her. Conversation between the two girls had been extremely limited for some time, so no one noticed it.

Quickly Blondie undressed and slipped into her dressing gown.

Golden Temple Of Jehol At Chicago's World's Fair Discloses Romantic Episodes Of Chinese Emperors

Chicago, May 30.—All the legendary glamour, mystic rites of the Lama and Buddhist religions, and romantic episodes in the lives of Emperors who once ruled Chinese millions, have been brought to life for the western world in the resplendent Golden Temple of Jehol, at Chicago's 1933 World's Fair, A Century of Progress, which opens May 27.

Around the famed Golden Pavilion are woven some of the most colorful and stirring chapters in Oriental history. Bloodshed, court intrigues, the love affairs of kings, and the beginnings of a religion that once swayed the millions, have their part in the story unfolded for the Exposition visitor.

The Chinese Lama temple, originally built in 1767 at Jehol, the summer palace of Manchu emperors, is now crumbling to ruins. Here in Chicago it has been faithfully reproduced and will be preserved on the shores of Lake Michigan for future generations.

Brought in 28,000 Pieces
It was brought over land and sea, with all its bright oriental reds and golds, by Dr. Sven Hedin, the famous Swedish explorer-author, for Vincent Bendix of Chicago. Reconstruction of the shrine in Jehol was the work of more than two years. More than 28,000 pieces of wood were cut and fashioned in fabricating the historic shrine.

Dr. Hedin was particularly suited for the task of seeking out a Chinese temple that would be typical of the Oriental type of architecture and at the same time tell something of the splendor and pomp of Celestial history.

While engaged in research work incidental to the building of the Lama shrine and in the collection of rare treasures which it houses, Dr. Hedin discovered many interesting facts concerning the decadence of Lamaism. He learned that while there were 600 Lamas, or priests of the faith in 1911, their number has diminished to 100 today. The earliest Lamaism, visitors to the Fair will be told, was a mixture of Buddhism and ancient native demon-worship, having been brought from India by Guru-Padma-Sambhava in 747. In its early history, a large number of complicated rites were developed, in which mystic adjurations and sacrificial acts predominated.

Rose to Great Influence

Lamaism rose to great political influence during the thirteenth century when Kubla Khan, Emperor of China, gave it his sanction and protection. In 1261, the emperor recognized the religion after representatives of other faiths had been given an opportunity to compete for the honor in demonstrations of miracle-working and mysticism.

In succeeding centuries, the idea grew that Lamas, or high priests, were emanations from the gods, and had been reincarnated to protect religion on earth. The number of these "living gods" increased very rapidly until they occupied prominent places in almost all large temples in Tibet and Mongolia.

The Mongolians were converted to Lamaism for the second time about 1570, when Dalai Lama, the First, made a ceremonious visit to the King of the Tumed-Mongolians in the temple city of Kukulhot. Since that day the Mongolians have been ardent worshippers of the Lamaistic code.

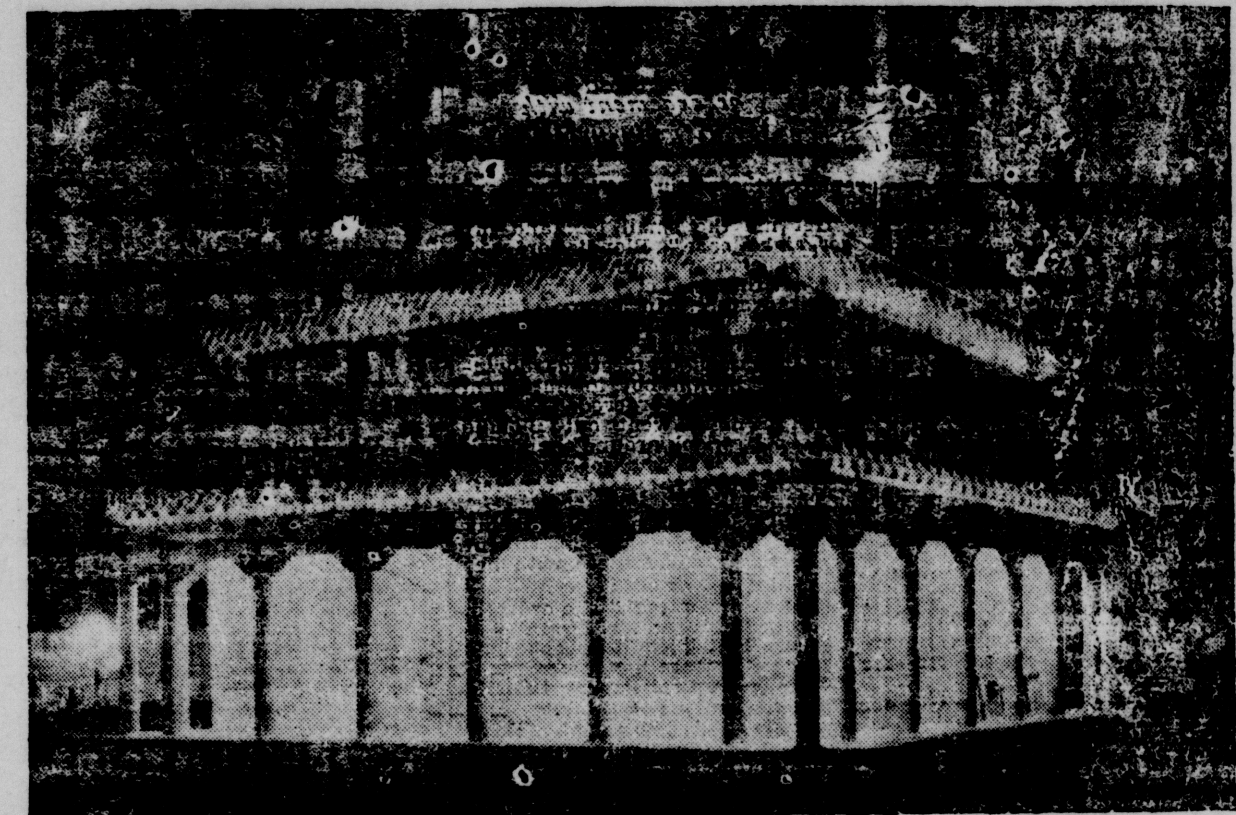

The Chinese Emperors of the Manchu dynasty, who ruled until China became a republic in 1911, found it to be highly politic to support Lamaism. The religion had a brilliant era of greatness in the reign of Oh'ien-Lung, 1736-96, under whose patronage the original Golden Pavilion of Jehol was built.

Treasures Unfolded

In its replica at A Century of Progress, temple bells, images of gods and dragons, prayer rugs, ceremonial robes, rare silks and tapestries and other treasures unfold for the Occidental visitors the colorful story of romance and intrigue that was enacted in and about the shrine during the centuries.

The student will find much to interest him in the Lama Temple, aside from the stories of court intrigue and romance woven around its existence. At the entrance is a "Laughing Buddha" made of solid wood covered with red gold lacquer, sitting on a broad chair of the same material.

Replica of the Golden Temple of Jehol, celebrated Chinese Lama Temple, at Chicago's 1933 World's Fair as viewed at night. It is a reproduction of the place of worship of the Manchu emperors.

THE SALESMAN OF THE FUTURE

There are two possible viewpoints to every sale. One is that of the manufacturer or merchant solely concerned with finding an outlet for his goods. The other is that of the consumer whose interest lies not so much in the material thing purchased as in the service he can expect from it.

Salesmanship must bring these two viewpoints into focus to make a complete picture. This is not a new idea, but it is one that will gain ground because in the long run it is the most effective selling.

America's foremost automobile manufacturer has always had this kind of salesmanship in mind. When he sold his first motor-car he was not content until he had hunted up a nearby blacksmith and showed him how to take the car apart and put it together so that he could fix it if anything went wrong. He has always been more concerned with what the purchaser can do with the car than whether he could make a sale. Out of the hundreds of makes of motor-cars built and advertised in the last quarter of a century, those which have been supported with competent service systems.

Advertising, which is an integral part of modern salesmanship, likewise increases in value as it takes into account the consumer's side of the transaction.

The most effective advertising is the most informative. Advertising which simply urges people to buy goods, will have no place in the selling advertising of the future. Advertising will sell just as salesmen will sell, by interpreting goods in terms of usefulness or desirability to the consumer. Advertising will tell consumers how to use goods more efficiently, more thoroughly, how to take care of them, how to repair them, how to get the most of value and service out of them. And advertising of this kind will be—is today—more profitable than any circus stunt or ballyhoo that can be devised. To manufacturers of real purpose and with this broad-based salesmanship in their scheme, The Sikeston Standard offers a well-organized and experienced advertising service. This advertising-business organization, now number a trained personnel, has grown steadily for twenty years through its adherence to sound principles of publishing.

Mrs. Lorena Hamby Undergoes Operation

Mrs. Lorena Hamby, who has been living at Fort Worth, Texas with her daughter, Mrs. Pearl Novak, and at Waco with her son, Mike, underwent a successful operation Tuesday morning at the Methodist Hospital, Fort Worth. According to a letter received here Thursday morning by Jesse Hamby, another son, Mrs. Hamby rallied splendidly following the operation and is expected to recuperate nicely. The operation for the removal of her gall bladder and appendix consumed one hour and 45 minutes.

Miss Dixie Massingale Married June 17

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Massingale Wednesday announced the marriage of their daughter, Dixie Virginia, to Stanley Kilburn of Springfield, Mo. The ceremony was solemnized at 4 o'clock Saturday, June 17 in Springfield at the home of Mrs. Paul Lohmeyer, sister of the bride. Dr. S. F. Reipma of Christ's Episcopal church officiated, with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lohmeyer as attendants. A few other close relatives were also present for the wedding.

Following a wedding supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lohmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Kilburn left for a two weeks' honeymoon trip.

Mrs. Kilburn is a graduate of the Southeast Missouri Teachers' College at Cape Girardeau, and has taught school in the high schools at Fruitland and Desloge, Mo. Mr. Kilburn attended Southwest State Teachers' College and the University of Missouri. He is now manager of the Meyer-Blanke Wholesale Company in Springfield, where the young couple will make their home at 1517 Benton Street.

Miss Arnett Surprised With Birthday Party

Miss Louise Arnett was pleasantly surprised Wednesday evening, June 21, by a number of her friends who assembled at her home to help celebrate her sixteenth birthday. Several games were played and refreshments were served. Mrs. Arnett, hostess, was assisted by her sister, Mrs. M. L. DeLoache of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. E. Duncan.

Those present were Misses Nell Rose of McMullin, Elsie Couch, Eliza Duncan, Helen Lee, Camille Henley, Catherine Sneed, Edna Beck, Velma Mays, Hazel Beck, Mary Louise, Edna and Lucille Arnett, Rev. J. A. Duncan and wife, Leonard Hornback, Taty Hahn, Reece Hart, Marshall Duncan and Raymond Arnett.

Dance Club Hop Is Enjoyable Affair

Members of the Dance Club of 1933 and others of Sikeston and vicinity enjoyed an Armory dance last Wednesday night with a 14-piece all-girl band furnishing the music. The Co-Eds formed an important unit of a road show which played Tuesday and Wednesday night at the Malone Theatre here.

A number of ladies met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. F. Baker on Ruth Street for the purpose of organizing a club. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Judson Boardman; vice-president, Mrs. Dave Reese; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. T. F. Baker; reporter, Mrs. W. W. Lankford, chairman; flower committee, Mrs. Gust Zacher. A name for the club will be decided upon at a later date. After the business session, a pleasant social hour was enjoyed, during which several contests were played. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of the President, Mrs. Boardman, Wednesday afternoon, July 19. Those present besides the hostess were: Mrs. Dave Reese, Mrs. Judson Boardman, Mrs. Eli Williams, Mrs. Gust Zacher, Mrs. W. W. Lankford, Mrs. Ben Carroll, Mrs. E. A. Bandy, Mrs. Doc Watson, Mrs. Jake Sutton and one visitor, Mrs. Nellie Atkinson. Other members, who were not present, are: Mrs. Fred Jones and Mrs. Arthur Reese.

Lyman Bowman and Murray Phillips went to Chicago Tuesday to attend a Millers' Meeting. They will return home today (Friday). Miss Edith Darby is on the sick list.

Misses Marie and Dimple Patterson and Ara Bell Blackburn were in Cape Girardeau last Saturday. Misses Patterson and Blackburn returned home, while Miss Dimple remained for a two weeks' visit with relatives. Felton McClain came to Sikeston with them for a two weeks' visit with his aunt, Mrs. L. B. Patterson and family.

Miss Lillian Feltner, a student at the Jade Beauty school, Cape Girardeau, spent last week-end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Feltner.

NEW OFFICERS TAKE CHARGE IN LIONS CLUB

"LADIES' NIGHT" PROGRAM WEDNESDAY

A unique and clever program of fun and serious talks marked the annual installation of new officers and directors in the Lions' Club Wednesday night at the Hotel Marshall dining room. The program was witnessed by twenty members and twenty-five guests including wives and sweethearts.

The retiring officers include Jno. G. Powell, president, who briefly reviewed an unusually active tenure of office. The complete list of achievements and activities will be presented in a subsequent issue of this newspaper. Other officers placed on the ex-service list are H. C. Young, P. D. Lair and Thomas B. Dudley, vice-president; E. F. Schorle, den keeper; Clay Mitchell, lion tamer and Duree Medley, tail twister.

10-year Secretary

Ralph Anderson, re-installed as secretary of the Lions Club Wednesday night, begins his tenth term in the capacity of secretary and treasurer, a post which he first accepted in June, 1924. "The passing years have made quite a change in the personnel and membership of the Club, but one noticeable feature is the fact that the outstanding business leaders of the community, past and present are recorded on the roster of the Club", stated Anderson, who takes considerable pride in the neatly typed record book.

Retiring directors are J. E. Harp and C. C. White. The incoming slate is headed by Charles L. Blanton, Jr., who will be assisted by E. F. Schorle, M. M. Beck and Joe Sarsar, vice-presidents; Ralph F. Anderson, secretary and treasurer; L. D. Gneiner, tail twister, O. T. Elder, lion tamer and Ted Kirby, den keeper.

Visiting guests artists included Mrs. Bess Elder, Cookie Cook, Jo Smith and Virginia Baker.

Initiation of new members was conducted by the Benton Lions Club delegation headed by R. L. Purry, and Ed Timmerstein. Mr. and Mrs. Alden Pinney of Benton also attended. After the fun of mock initiation, Rev. E. H. Orear, local Methodist pastor and honor member of the Club, gave a brief, serious talk on the idealism, purpose and function of Lionism.

Mrs. C. D. Matthews, Jr., Mrs. Murray Phillips, Mrs. E. C. Matthews and children, Miss Olga and Edward, left yesterday afternoon for Chicago to attend the World's Fair. From Chicago Mrs. E. C. Matthews and children will go to Santa Monica, Calif., to visit with her sister, Miss Lillian Bergmann. They will be gone until September. Mrs. C. D. Matthews and Mrs. Phillips will return to Sikeston after about a 10-day stay at the exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Feeward, who have been living in the Keith apartment are now living in the Noble apartment on South Kingshighway.

MERCHANTS TO GIVE AWAY $300 IN GIFTS SAT.

FINAL EVENT OF SERIES IS SCHEDULED

A "Buy in Sikeston" campaign started shortly after the Drummers' Convention here three weeks ago will be concluded next Saturday afternoon when approximately $300 in merchandise will be given away free of charge, beginning at 4:30 o'clock at Railroad Park.

"The two previous events have consumed more time than could be allotted", stated Ernest Harper, chairman today, "so that in this final campaign many of the gifts have been consolidated making them more valuable. Among other first string items to be handed out is an electric vacuum cleaner, medicine cabinet, a nicely upholstered chair, and 50 grocery and merchandise baskets.

All persons who hold tickets are requested to be present on time Saturday afternoon in order to facilitate the work of the committee.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt has been acquitted of libeling Gus O. Nations, Anti-Saloon League official. What has become of the case of Herbert Nations for conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act? Others indicted with him, except one, have pleaded guilty to the charge.

Mrs. Clay A. Mitchell entertained at bridge yesterday afternoon. We are glad to report that Mrs. G. F. Pierce is still improving in health. Other members of the family, Mrs. Shannon and Miss Rebecca Pierce, are also improving.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moll of Jackson, who visited their sons, R. A. and Birch Moll and families, went to Bernie Wednesday to visit their nephew, Dr. Tom Allen and family. R. A. Moll took his parents to Sikeston, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Judson Boardman, Mrs. Jake Sutton and daughter, Miss Evelyn, were in Greenville, Tuesday to attend the funeral of Walter Rubottom. Mr. Rubottom was a cousin of Mesdames Boardman and Sutton.

GOLF CLUBS AND HIGH POWERED GUNS USED IN "MAN HUNT"

Sikeston Country Club members, a United States Marshall of Jackson, Mo., and Melvin Dace, State Highway Patrolman, wrote another chapter in the case of Marvin Lee McFadden late Thursday afternoon, when they staged a "man hunt" using weapons ranging from golf sticks to .30-30 rifles.

McFadden, who has been living in Dog Trot for the past several months, was arrested originally

May 8, 1932 for operating a passenger automobile on truck license plates. An investigation by Hubert Brooks and John Tandy later pointed the finger of suspicion more directly at McFadden, naming him as the owner of a stolen motor car.

McFadden was captured eventually after he jumped from a farm wagon at Matthews, and staged a running match with Trooper Brooks.

He has been out on bond since that time. Thursday evening, a U. S. Marshal attempted to escort

McFadden to court to answer the charge. He begged leave "to tell his wife and child goodbye". Then followed the race and subsequent chase through the Grover Baker farm, and the northwest section of town.

Golfers swinging clubs headed off the fleeing prisoner; the marshal and his assistant eventually flanked the man, and Dace, armed with a high-powered rifle, brought up the immediate rear. McFadden surrendered.

AUXILIARY NOTES

The American Legion Auxiliary held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Paul Galloway Wednesday evening with a good attendance. Reports of committees were received and plans for the 4th of July family picnic were completed. The Legionnaires and their families will spend the day on Castor River.

Mrs. Bill Sensenbaugh entertained at bridge Tuesday afternoon.

OILERS TRIM COBBLERS IN HECTIC GAME

INTERNATIONALS LOSE BY SCORE OF 10-9

The Standard Oilers added another game to their growing list of victories by taking the Internationalists into camp in one of the most entertaining games of the many baseball series last Tuesday afternoon. The final count gave the Oilers the advantage of a 10 to 9 score, but the game was far from "iced away" for either team during the hectic contest.

Everything in the baseball manual happened in the Tuesday contest with the possible exception of a triple play. However, the boys presented a fine assortment of angles, doubles, home runs, errors, boisterous catches, double plays, fast plays and close decisions.

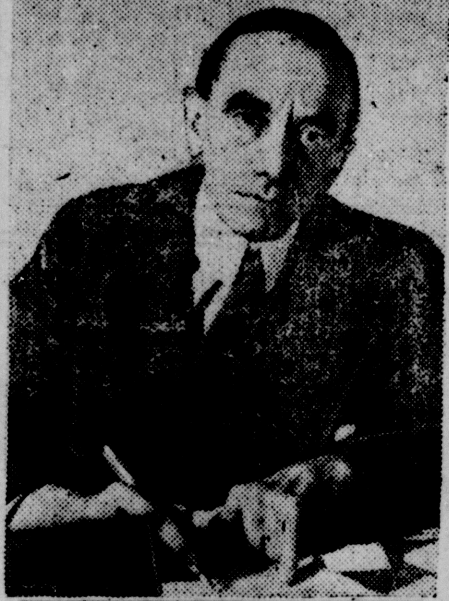

The Shoe Men, who incidentally played their first game under the management of "Red" Kirby, drew first blood by scoring in the first frame. Crouch who was destined to have an almost perfect afternoon crossed the plate with the tally, scoring on Butler's long drive to centerfield. Crain reached third after getting on by an error, but died there when Hicks and Snake Crain wiffed.

The Oilers promptly knotted the count in their half of the first with Sells pounding out a double, and scoring on Swain's single with two men on.

The second frame was scoreless. In the third the Internationalists added one with Crouch again crossing the plate, this time assisted by Law's bingle. The lead was short lived, however, because the McCoy crowd promptly found Letty Weideman for four safeties, and two runs to lead three to two.

Sexton went in for Williams at right for Kirby's men and led off with a single in the International half of the fourth. He died on second when Greer lined down to Kindred at short.

Then started the fireworks. The Oilers came to bat and enjoyed a complete round of hits, errors and fumbles which cost the Internationalists exactly six runs. King started the runaround and after each one of his team mates had doubled the stick, had the honor of making the final out. Six errors, four hits, and six runs proved too much for Manager Kirby, who sent Page to the showers after Beard clouted out a homer to clean the bags. Page took the mound position from Letty Weideman, who retired after three innings.

One final flurry in the fifth frame good for one run, ended the scoring for the Oilers, but in the meantime the total of ten tallies had been reached.

In the "fever" fifth an aeroplane temporarily stopped the game after it was learned that the Nashville nifer had telegraphed for landing facilities here. Jim Kevil notified him to land at the ball park. Instead of doing so, the man at the stick continued over town and landed on the old diamond, now the Sikeston Country Club golf links.

The Internationalists started their comeback in the fifth by adding three runs to their count thanks to a single by Crouch, a homer by Butler, and a double by Shorty Crain. After that Law, Hicks and Paul Crain went down in one-two-three order and the rally fell flat.

The boys again promised to steal the game in the sixth, after Sexton had grounded out as leadoff man for the inning. Greer came thru with a single, and scored on Butler's triple. Crouch, following Greer had grounded out short to first.

Shorty Crain got on when he was hit by a pitched ball, but the scoring chances passed when Law grounded out to Kindred at short. Frank made a remarkable running pickup and caught Law at first with a fast peg to Sells.

The nightcap inning carried its threat also with the Shoe Makers stealing the limelight. Sexton and Greer brought in two unearned runs getting to first on an error and a pass respectively, and scoring on Crouch's double. Butler also visited first on an error, but the next three batsmen grounded out and the game closed with the Oilers one run in the lead.

"Jog up the attendance and the collections", ordered High Commissioner E. F. Schorle during the game. The schedule has not quite reached the half way mark, he pointed out and the games really deserve larger crowds and better financial report than in the past.

Better for Baby

THE most careful mother cannot strain her baby's first cereal feedings as finely as the commercial canners. A new product, Strained Cereal, has just been put on the market by one of the most prominent canners of strained baby foods, and the strainers used have openings of about one-fourth to one-fifth the area of the holes in the ordinary wire strainer used in the home.

Finely Ground

This cereal mixture of whole wheat, hulled oats and additional wheat germ is finely ground to make it suitable for baby's sensitive digestive tract, and then cooked in whole fresh milk instead of water, and the mixture strained to remove the larger particles of bran. This process means that the nutritive values in the bran or outer layer have been extracted from the entire wheat grain before straining.

For baby's first cereal feedings this Strained Cereal in most cases is of ideal consistency as it comes from the can. Where desirable to feed with the bottle, it can be readily diluted with milk or water. Its smooth, even consistency is maintained with no lumping or other difficulty when liquid is added, and no further cooking is necessary in either case.

No salt or sugar is added in canning this Strained Cereal in order that the mother can season as the baby's doctor directs. The product can just be poured into a sauce pan, warmed to the desired feeding temperature, and salt or sugar added as the doctor advises. Be sure always to feed your baby strictly according to the doctor's directions.

Parma 4-H Club Cans Nearly $100 Worth of Food

Members of the Peppy Cannery Club, a 4-H Canning Club at Parma, completed their year's work and held their achievement exercises at the home of their leader, Mrs. S. T. Gee, Thursday afternoon, June 8.

The Club is composed of: Charlotte Gee, President; Ailee Noble, Vice-President; Katherine Bolton, Reporter; Maggie Brown, Kathryn Gee and Elsie Bultman.

These Club members canned for exhibit 92 quarts of fruit, 64 quarts of tomatoes, 61 quarts of other vegetables, 13 quarts of sauer kraut and 23 quarts of relishes. They canned as much or more, which was not exhibited, for the use of their families.

The average amount canned by each Club member was 16 gallons and the total value of this food canned by this club was $94.47.

Twenty families in the Parma community have learned better canning methods from this Club.

To Show Foods at Chicago Fair

A SALIENT feature of the great Century of Progress International Exposition at Chicago which opened its gates to the public on the first of June is a showing of what science and industry have done to improve the conditions governing food and its distribution. These conditions include quality, cleanliness, variety, palatability and convenience. Science and industry have made immense strides in these directions during the last few decades, and one of the recent industrial tendencies has been to gather under one administrative control a group of the pick of the best foods with which the public is familiar.

That is what General Foods Corporation has done, and the reason why its exhibit in the impressive Agriculture and Foods building is always crowded is because this exhibit includes well known and widely used breakfast foods, gelatins, cake flour, tapiocas, chocolate, cocoa, coconut, decaffeinated coffee, maple flavored syrup, coffee, tea, baking powder, bottled peaches for use in making jams and jellies, high grade salt, frozen foods and many more. There are eighty General Foods products in all, including even aids to washing and ironing.

An Unusual Method

An unusual method has been adopted to make clear to the massed crowds just how these foods are produced and in what forms they are presented to the public. On one of the largest revolving stages ever built General Foods is presenting sixteen scenic productions featuring each of its nationally advertised products, and telling its dramatic story through a variety of highly interesting and unique mediums. Eight of the performances are given simultaneously for a period of two minutes. The other eight come on for the same length of time, following an intermission of one second. So a person standing before one stage can see the entire sixteen shows by merely standing still because of the revolving mechanism. This has proved an admirable piece of forethought as it would be difficult to circulate from one stage to another in the dense crowd.

As each of the shows is completed, sliding panel aluminum doors close amid a splendor of changing colored lights focused on the front of the stages. At the same time, gigantic packages in full relief, towering ten feet above the stages, move in review until the beginning of the next series of shows. Multi-colored spot lights play on these cartons, which are brilliantly lacquered, as they are in motion. These mammoth packages, when stationary, serve to identify the show going on below them.

Products and Photographs

Large display cases, framed in curved glass and brilliantly lighted, contain interesting arrangements of these principal products and of approximately fifty other brands manufactured by the various General Foods units. Lining the backgrounds of the cabinets are photographic murals of appetizing food subjects—dishes of cereal and fruit, jelly, beverages, cakes, pies, salads, desserts, and many more. The cases are located at the bases of massive illuminated columns, half of them rising to a height of thirty-five feet. These columns are twenty feet apart, and a triple tier of aluminum discs tops the columns and supports the structure overhead.

Architecturally the exhibit strikes a fresh modern note. In beauty, color and lighting effects it is appropriately attuned to the modern spirit which characterizes the exposition. A color scheme of orange vermillion, black, and aluminum is emphasized throughout the structure. The floor surrounding the space, which measures eighty by forty-two feet, is covered with a coating of polished brass.

A Monster Cook Book

At the north end of the exhibit the new General Foods Cook Book, which has proved so popular with American housewives, is being displayed and sold. A large reproduction of the Cook Book, with its pages constantly turning, is located above the display and shows women visitors the many worthwhile features offered in the book. Four experienced home economic experts associated with the company's consumer service department are in charge of these Cook Book activities. In addition, a dozen recipe booklets regularly distributed by the company free of charge are being displayed and offered to visitors who wish to have them mailed to their homes.

At the south end of the space a graphic story of General Foods as an institution is told in large photographic murals. A map and pictures show the location of the company's various plants, and division, district and sub-district offices; its manufacturing and research activities; the work of its consumer service department; and its service to various trade groups.

Quick Frosted Foods, Too

Adjacent to the Cook Book booth and occupying a prominent location at the northwest corner of the exhibit, quick-frosted foods, the company's newest development, are being shown and demonstrated. The complete line of foods—packaged meats, poultry, seafood, vegetable and fruit—comprising some sixty items, are included in this exhibit.

A balcony extending over the entire length of the exhibit is being used as an office by the company's Fair personnel, and serves as headquarters for General Foods' guests and organization.

MRS. ANNA DEVER DIES THURSDAY

Charleston, June 22.—Death called unexpected at 2:00 o'clock this morning and claimed Mrs. Anna Dever, 65 years old, who for the past 43 years has been a resident in this city. She had been ill for several days, but friends and relatives believed they noted an improvement yesterday. Complications developed, however, and the aged woman passed away at 2 o'clock this morning with a heart attack.

Mrs. Dever was widely known as an active worker in the First Baptist church of Charleston, having served as secretary to the Woman's Missionary Society for 27 consecutive years. She was also prominent in Eastern Star work, having acted in an official capacity in that order here for more than twenty years.

Her husband preceded her in death three years ago last November. Surviving are a niece, Mrs. Hamilton Stark, of Elizabethtown, Ky., whom she reared from infancy, and two brothers, Kaiser and John Steinbraker, of Caruthersville.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed early Thursday morning pending arrival of Mrs. Stark. The last rites will probably be conducted Friday, it was stated here this morning.

The State Game and Fish Commissioner of Missouri should be called to Washington to advise with "brains" now acting as advisers to the Democratic administration. He has thought up a scheme to charge 10 cents admission to see the rough country called State Parks, where hills, hollows, brush, timber and rocks will be a sight to behold. Visit the rough country of the Eastern Ozarks where it will cost nothing to view the scenery.

LAIR STORE NEWS

"That Interesting Store"

HOUSE FURNISHINGS

Our 34 Year in S. E. Mo.

Majestic Refrigerator Sales are stepping along for the perfectly good reason that quality of the highest grade is built into every one—a guarantee of three years being proof of that fact. Further—prices are going to advance July 1st without fail and, again, seventy-five pieces of standard kitchen equipment goes in gratis with each Majestic sale between now and July 1st. If you happen to be among prospective buyers we urge prompt action.

A good increase in business volume during past sixty days justifies increased stock, hence our complete ground floor from now on will contain new goods, only. The scores of pieces of good used items have been moved and conveniently displayed on second floor. Mr. Rajotte who was with us for fifteen or twenty years in Charleston, has charge of the used department which means it will be kept in apple pie order with all pieces in serviceable condition.

Among many good values in used equipment we are showing two Fridgidares which work like new, and also look good. Buyers of these pieces will get genuine bargains. Plenty of time to pay for them.

New literature from the big Chicago markets indicates a strong tendency toward modernistic styles in bedroom ensembles. We have already stocked some beautiful numbers of that type which are being complimented frequently by well posted critics. Prices on the new ideas are very modest.

From a hundred sources, advice is coming in of price advances. You are perhaps hearing the same story from other industries. Figures in our store have not undergone any changes worth while yet, but it is evident we will be forced to follow the market before long.

Among the dozen or two good ice refrigerators taken in trade on Majestics are several old style ice boxes with sliding tops. For certain requirements these are very handy. Prices extremely low.

Another big pay day at the International Shoe Plant peps up business quite a bit. Begins to look like old times again when patrons come in with smiles and pay their bit toward better home equipment and then place orders for more.

And now comes another International Shoe Company pay day to pep things up and make us forget our troubles of last winter. Begins to look like old times again when folks come in and not only pay and pay, but place orders for more and better home equipment. Plenty of activity is a good physical as well as business tonic.

Sikeston territory is probably the best field for Florence stoves in the State. This has been brought about because for years there have been more Florences sold than all other brands put together. They have given such general satisfaction that many come in and call for them and buy them without the aid of salesmen. Our store has been designated by the Florence Company as headquarters for years.

We Give Eagle Stamps for Our Bread Wrappers

THE EDITOR
SAYS—

When does a man or woman become childish and what pranks do they commit that puts them in their second childhood? It has come to us that we are in our second childhood because we were proud to wear our grey derby, because we now wear a sporty turned down brim straw hat, because we eat ice cream cones and candy with children. These things are true and we are proud of it. We have always liked candy and ice cream, have always liked to wear good clothes, was taught to keep our body clean. Just how shall we dress to keep out of the childhood class? An old man who is filthy in his habits, with his clothes, with his body, is a pitiful object, and we are glad that we still have mind enough and soap and water enough to keep clean, second childhood or not.

As Father Time comes our way and the three score and ten allotted to man is in sight, it is time to put the house in order. This means financially and morally in order that not so many bad things can be said after the passing to the unknown. If those who owe The Standard on subscription, for job work, or advertising, would promptly pay, we could set our earthly affairs in better order, and how the future condition can be judged will have to be left to the Supreme Ruler of the Universe. Do you take the hint?

One way for a business to continue is for the owner to have his life insured then pass peacefully away. At that, though, the insurance company might be operating under the moratorium.

The Directors of the Cape Teachers College have elected a President of that institution and a Dean to replace Mr. Serena and Mr. Douglas. Its close proximity to every section of Southeast Missouri should make it convenient for those seeking a higher education than they can receive in their local school to attend this college instead of going farther from home. To be sure, this all means if the courses sought are taught at the Cape Teachers' College. It is necessary to go elsewhere if teachers mathematics is required to give one the necessary points as hours required to teach. Here's hoping no petty strife will interfere with the success of the new officials.

A question that should have been discussed at the recent Southeast Missouri Press meeting is the value of county warrants that are being given in return for printing. Hardly an office in the State but what has a number of these warrants and need the money. While the Government has been so liberal in helping others, why wouldn't it be a good idea for the County Courts in Missouri to ask the R. F. C., or some other fountain of finance, for help to take up frozen warrants that will sooner or later be thawed.

Dr. Anna Smith, of Poplar Bluff, has been sentenced to the penitentiary for three years at Doniphan, charged with helping a young school teacher out of an embarrassing condition, thereby causing her death. To love not wisely has sent many girls to their death rather than live in humiliation.

Bob Hollaway, a newspaper reporter, has been selected as secretary of the Public Service Commission at Jefferson City. This is a good selection of a mighty fine man. We were 100 per cent for him for Congress in the last primary, believing we needed more common sense and fewer lawyers in Congress.

In looking over the police court docket we find some funny things are done. An entry on May 29 showed two young men arrested and fined for fighting. Both asked for a few days in which to secure the money to pay off, which was granted. One kept his word and paid off, the other has failed to keep his promise. A commitment was placed in the hands of an officer of the city early in June to bring the young man in and it has never been served. What the country needs is officers who know no one when they break the law, and serve papers promptly.

Mr. Hitler is enforcing his extreme nationalism in Munich in a way that is not altogether acceptable to the Bavarians. When Bismarck unified the German States, Bavaria had least to gain, and the hold of the German Empire on Bavaria is perhaps weaker than its grip on most of the other constituent States. If Bavaria should take it into its head to stage a walk-out, the united fatherland would have a real problem on its hands. That such an action would not lack external support is obvious. It is an unfavorable comment on Mr. Hitler's statesmanship that he did not prepare a mild and much-disputed prescription for South Germany.

MERCHANTS TAX BUGABOO LOOMS UP JULY FIRST

REVISED STATUTE WILL BE IN EFFECT

The annual bugaboo of Sikeston merchants, that of paying their occupancy tax, merchants tax, again looms on the horizon, July 1 at which time all tax receipts for 1932-33 expire.

An upward revision of the scale was invoked on June 5 by the City Council which sat in session for four hours, and then held additional committee meetings in recess before the lengthy document of 135 sections finally received the signature of His Honor Mayor Fuchs. Just what the revised ordinance will turn out to be, but various "expert guess-timators" claim the new scale will mean a net loss in revenue of from $1000 to $1500.

The City Fathers have worked out a general classification of merchants under Section 86 which reads:

Section 86—A merchant is any person who shall deal in the selling of goods, wares and merchandise at any stand or place occupied for that purpose, and this definition shall be construed to mean all dealers in drugs, and medicines, lumber, jewelry, including watches and clocks, furniture, clothing, stoves, tinware and other hardware, book, music, musical instruments, fruits, millinery, toys, queensware, produce or grain, gas fixtures, gloves, plumbing goods, bicycles, boots and shoes, carpets, new and second hand machinery and implements, notions, optical goods, glassware, paint and wall paper, haberdashery or men's furnishing goods, harness saddlery and dealers in all other articles of merchandise, the taxation of which is not otherwise here provided for.

The scale calls for the following tax:

Valuation $250 and less, the sum of	$ 7.50
Valuation $251 and under $700, the sum of	10.00
Valuation $701 and under $5000, the sum of	15.00
Valuation $5001 and under $10,000, the sum of	20.00
Valuation $10,001 and under $15,000, the sum of	25.00
Valuation $15,001 and under $20,000, the sum of	30.00
Valuation $20,001 and over, the sum of	50.00

The City Dads under the most recent decision have listed mercantile agents as being liable for a tax of $100 per year. A mercantile agent is defined to be any person having a place of business in the City of Sikeston where orders for the sale and delivery of merchandise are taken, or who shall go from place to place within the city and shall take orders for the sale of goods, wares and merchandise for future delivery.

DR. ANNA SMITH SENTENCED FOR DEATH OF GIRL

OPERATION

Poplar Bluff, June 20.—According to the report of the American Republic, newspaper here, Dr. Anna A. Smith of the Smith Hospital, Poplar Bluff, was found guilty of a charge of manslaughter, when tried in Circuit Court at Doniphan yesterday. She was sentenced to three years in the Missouri penitentiary, after a jury deliberation of 45 minutes. The case was taken to Ripley county on a change of venue and the verdict was returned at 10:10 last night, after a night court session.

Dr. Smith was tried in connection with the death of Katherine Arnold, 20, Parma school teacher, who died at the Brandon Hospital here October 22, last. Dr. Smith is alleged to have performed an illegal operation.

Sterling O. Richardson, who testified in behalf of the doctor, is charged with complicity in the case and is at liberty now under bond pending trial in Circuit Court at the July term. Dr. J. Elliott Smith, husband of the convicted practitioner is also charged in the crime and is scheduled to be tried in July.

Dr. Smith has been charged three other times with performing illegal operations, but had not gone to trial previously.

David Blanton left this (Friday) morning for Willow Springs, Mo., where he will visit friends for several days.

ANNUAL RED CROSS SWIM SCHOOL TO START

ALL CLASSES TO BE AC-
COMMODATED

The annual school of instruction in swimming and life saving conducted by the Scott County Chapter, American Red Cross, will get underway this week Friday night at the Chaney Natatorium, according to Wilbur Ensor, instructor and examiner who anticipates a record enrollment.

Last year, said the instructor, 55 persons signed up for instruction and attended a total of 15 sessions. The record of achievement is even more startling.

Cuts A Dime

A special rate of ten cents per session has been granted by J. N. Chaney, owner of the Natatorium, stated Wilbur Ensor today. "It will be necessary, however, for those participating in the Red Cross Swimming and Life Saving School to sign up for the entire course and actually take part before this rate will be effective."

Out of the 55 taking instruction, six passed the beginners test which calls for jumping into the water feet first, leveling off, swimming 25 feet and returning to the starting point.

Nineteen passed the swimmers test. The requirements in this case call for treading water for 30 seconds; floating motionless, making a plain front dive; swimming 100 yards; swimming 50 feet on back using legs only; making a surface dive into six or eight feet of water, recovering an object and witnessing a demonstration of artificial respiration.

Eleven members of the last year's class passed the Junior life saving requirements.

Members of the class, according to Mr. Ensor, ranged in age from 6 to 25 years.

Register Friday

Registration will take place Friday night at 7 o'clock at the pool. All entrants will be classified either as beginners, swimmers or advanced swimmers. This work of registration and classification will probably take up most of the first evening, so that the actual schedule of activities will not get underway until next week.

The new filtration and aeration plant installed at the municipal waterworks is a genuine aid in the work, commented Ensor, who stated that the water in the Natatorium was noticeably clearer. "You can see a nickel in nine feet of water," so that diving for objects will not be such a task," he stated.

All persons who have some knowledge of swimming and would like to learn and perfect the standard swimming strokes and learn to dive, are especially urged to avail themselves of this opportunity for free instruction.

Likewise all the requirements for Junior and Senior life saving will be taught. Those in the first class include all persons over 12 and under 17 years, and those in the senior division include all those over 17 years.

Stream of Golden Grain Moves Into Local Mill Market

The annual wheat harvest in this district is in full swing this week.

According to records of the Scott County Milling Company, the first farmer to reach the local market this year was Bill Simpson, living in the Richwoods community, north of Sikeston. Mr. Simpson's wheat was combined and graded Number Two.

The local market today (Thursday) was given as 73 cents.

Other growers in this district include Grover Baker, Murray Klein and Elton Proffer to mention a few.

In general, wheat is unusually dry at present. Fourteen consecutive days of unusually high temperatures combined with lack of moisture worked together to ripen the grain, very rapidly.

Sam Pikey of Conran started threshing last Tuesday on a 225-acre plot of wheat and sent the product to the local mill by truck.

EMERGENCY HOSPITAL

Mrs. W. N. Hennecke, who was operated on Thursday morning for appendicitis, is reported to be getting along nicely.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bethune Wednesday night, a son. Both mother and son doing nicely.

Bob Dempster drove to Jefferson City Thursday morning, where he will take the bar examination.

FLOOD CONTROL ON ST. FRANCIS IS PROPOSED

WOULD USE FOREST ARMY
UNDER NEW PLAN

Jefferson City, June 19.—"Very rapid substitution" of public works for relief is the goal of Missouri's Relief and Reconstruction Commission.

Returning from a conference in Washington with Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Director, Prof. Walter Burr, Missouri Relief Director, said today that it is the commission's purpose to encourage for Missouri "a very rapid substitution of public works for relief."

"With the summer on and food-stuff being plentifully produced in gardens, it should be possible in many areas of the State to greatly decrease and perhaps entirely discontinue relief, thus conserving our available relief funds as against possible serious needs for next winter," Prof. Burr said. "It is not intended that this shall cause any serious suffering since it will be in conjunction with the public works activities, including the immediate widespread activities in road construction in the State under the new grant by the public works act."

In addition to Prof. Burr, Wallace Crossley, chairman, and Dr. E. R. Cockrell of the Relief and Reconstruction Commission attended the Washington conference. Two projects were presented by the Missourians, one being for a flood control work on the St. Francis River. The other was for a large Federal forestry project in Missouri, five possible sites being suggested.

State Senator Langdon R. Jones of Kennett acted as spokesman in presenting the flood control project which, Prof. Burr said, was favorably received.

The State administrator of public work will be appointed within two weeks, Prof. Burr was notified today.

NEW MADRID WOMAN DROWNS IN MISSISSIPPI

DUAL TRAGEDY NARROWLY
AVERTED

New Madrid, June 21.—Mrs. Estaten Staten, 26 years old of this city was accidentally drowned in the Mississippi River near here last Monday evening at 5 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Staten had gone to the river to fish. The woman decided to go swimming, and had been in the water only a short time when she called for help. It is believed that an undercurrent pulled her under. Her husband reached her and while attempting to rescue her was pulled under for the third time and almost drowned. He finally swam to shore and obtained assistance.

Searchers working with fish nets recovered the body of Mrs. Staten about thirty minutes later within ten feet of the spot where she was last seen.

She is survived by her mother, step father, Author Hendrix, a half brother, James, and three half sisters, Dolly, Pearl and Nora. Services were held at the family home Tuesday afternoon 2:00 o'clock with burial in the East Side Cemetery.

Bluff-Sikeston Golf Tilt Set For Next Sunday

One of the most important matches of the annual Southeast Missouri Round Robin tournament is scheduled for next Sunday afternoon when the Poplar Bluff Country Club lads meet Sikeston on the local links.

Poplar Bluff handed the Sikeston Club an A1 trouncing in May, and since then the Butler countians have played entirely in the win column. Sikeston has suffered only on defeat, and by sending the Bluffs away Sunday with a defeat a playoff for the district title is almost assured.

T. A. Wilson, local tourney chairman, has lined up a total of 26 players to accommodate any number of visitors from Poplar Bluff.

Mount Resigns Red Cross Job

F. E. Mount last Monday night tendered his resignation as Chairman of the Scott County Chapter American Red Cross, at a called meeting of county leaders.

Miss Marian G. Keith of the St. Louis office and Mrs. W. A. English and Miss Mary Abshear of Diehlstadt were the only attendees from the out-county districts although personal invitations had been extended through letters and press notices. Four Sikeston board members in addition to Mr. Mount attended the meeting at the conclusion of which Art Wallhausen, H. E. Dudley and C. C. White were appointed members of a nominating committee and charged with the selection of a new chairman to fill the unexpired term. Their selection is being made in recess.

Miss Keith admonished members of the committee to make their selection only after very careful consideration. "Heretofore," stated this National Red Cross worker, "all work in this district has been pointed toward emergency relief. The Chapter was organized under such conditions, specifically the flood of 1927, and since that time activities have been centered upon emergency relief of one kind or another." She paid a high compliment to Mr. Mount, but stated that from now on the Chapter should be organized on a "normal, peace-time basis to carry out the program of Home Service, Junior Red Cross work, Life Saving, Public Information, Volunteer service and public welfare." "If that is done," she stated, "the work will be made much more pleasant for the executive or chairman in charge."

Mrs. Kenneth Dodson and baby of Sedalia and Haskel Mouser of South Bend, Ind., who spent a week here visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Mouser and family, left Monday for their respective homes. Miss Jewel Mouser accompanied her brother home and later both will go to Chicago, to attend the World's Fair.

Word from John Wood yesterday morning to his children, stated that Mrs. Wood was getting along fine at that writing.

PARKER AND MYERS HEAD CAPE SCHOOL

REGENTS DRAFT SUCCESSORS
TO SERENA AND DOUGLASS

Cape Girardeau, June 21.—Dr. W. Parker, of Alva, Okla., was elected president of the Southeast Missouri Teachers College at Cape Girardeau by the Board of Regents meeting at the college late yesterday.

Announcement of the appointment was made about 7 p. m. by V. C. Myers, former teacher at Will Mayfield College, Marble Hill, and more recently identified with a publishing company at Chicago in an editorial capacity was named dean.

The two men will succeed J. A. Serena, president and R. S. Douglass, dean, of the teachers college, who were not re-elected by the board at its meeting in May.

"We believe it was a happy solution of our affairs," said one member of the Board of Regents. "We were lucky that Mr. Myers accepted the office of dean, and inasmuch as Dr. Parker is 44 and Myers is 43 years old, they both have many years of active service ahead of them."

Dr. Parker is president of the Northwest Teachers College at Alva, Okla., being ousted by Gov. Wm. L. Murray, who also moved out a number of other educators in that State. Four presidents of State colleges were removed in that State by Governor "Alfalfa" Bill.

Dr. Parker issued a short statement last night in which he said he was "very happy at the opportunity to return to Missouri, where most of his educational work has been done."

At Warrensburg

He was for 13 years connected with the Warrensburg Teachers College, being professor of English and later dean of the faculty.

Prof. Myers is one of the most widely known educators in this district. A graduate of the Teachers College in 1919 when he received a B. S. Degree, he later took his Master's degree from Columbia University. He is a native of Bollinger county.

Dr. Parker is married and has three sons and a daughter. He is a writer of some distinction, having contributed to a number of national educational journals.

The board of regents elected all members of the faculty except the president and dean at the meeting in May.—American Republic.

COTTON REDUCTION PLAN TO BE OUTLINED FOR FARMERS NEXT WEEK

Furry Calls Meeting at High School
Gym for Monday or Tuesday to
Perfect Organization

COUNTY REDUCTION IS 30 PCT.

The acreage reduction plan for cotton under the Agricultural Adjustment Act which is planned to begin Monday, June 25th will call for a reduction in the present cotton acreage in Scott County of 4050 acres according to County Agent Furry, this is equivalent to a 30% reduction in the acreage of the average of the past five years.

In this campaign Missouri cotton producers will be asked to sign contracts offering to lease a definite amount of their acreage to Secretary Wallace. The Secretary is placing upon the cotton producers themselves the final responsibility for making effective the Government's plan for retiring production equivalent to two million bales of cotton. Unless the planters through the cotton belt volunteer a reduction in acreage sufficient to accomplish this purpose, the Government may abandon its plan of cotton relief.

To growers who volunteer to reduce their acreage two plans will be offered; First, a cash payment of $20 for land yielding an acre or more in consideration of co-operation.

The comparative terms offered in the two plans on lands of varying productive capacity are shown more clearly in the following table:

Range in Yield Per Acre	Rental per acre, with option	Rental per acre, without option
100 to 124 lbs.	$ 6.00	$ 7.00
125 to 149 lbs.	7.00	9.00
150 to 174 lbs.	8.00	11.00
175 to 224 lbs.	10.00	14.00
175 to 275 lbs.	11.00	17.00
Over 275 lbs.	12.00	20.00

The sliding scale of cash rental is based on the acre yield of the land taken out of production.

For the opening of the campaign Monday morning, June 26, the Agricultural Extension Service and the U. S. Department of Agriculture leaders of Missouri's cotton counties will have in readiness a working organization including a local committeeman for every hundred farmers. In each county these men, selected locally, will constitute the Control Committee, which will be assisted by a county Agricultural Extension Service and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

As the work of interviewing the planters and the signing of contracts proceeds next week, daily reports of the acreage withdrawn from production in each county will be wired to the State office of Agricultural Extension Service at Columbia, and thence daily totals for the State will in turn be wired to Secretary Wallace at Washington.

When the producers sign a voluntary agreement it will constitute an irrevocable offer for a limited, specified period during which the Secretary may accept or reject it. His intention is to accept offers which will assure the largest possible reduction in this year's crop, and secondly to distribute the benefits uniformly as far as possible over the entire cotton belt.

After the offers have been acted upon by Wallace and his aides a formal notice will be issued to those whose signed agreements have been accepted.

It then will be the duty of each to take out of production the acreage covered, by destroying it. Replanting of the land which would be moved off the farm will not be permitted, but feed for livestock may be produced.

County Agent Furry plans to hold a meeting at the high school gymnasium at Sikeston, next Monday or Tuesday, at which time he is calling in land owners, overseers and tenants who have cotton on their farms to explain the plan and to get organized in Scott County to handle this work. All cotton growers are urged to be present at this meeting. Announcements of this meeting will be mailed to cotton growers in Scott County, Friday, June 23, it is to be hoped that Scott County farmers will take advantage of this proposition and show that they are willing to co-operate in an effort to establish better prices for their cotton.

Ouster Suit Now In Final Stage Is Belief

Roger Bailey, special attorney of the City of Sikeston, who has been actively engaged in representing this city in ouster proceedings, directed against the Missouri Utilities Company is this week preparing a reply brief for presentation to the Public Service Commission of Missouri, it was stated today.

Attorneys for the Utilities Company last Monday filed additional information with the Commission, completing the record of a hearing conducted by the Commission on June 2. At that time, both sides were represented by attorney, and arguments pro and con were heard.

At that time the Commission authorized an extension of time to the Utilities Company, and a ten-day grant for a reply to that petition on the part of Attorney Bailey.

In its final analysis the completion of Bailey's reply brief completes the formal argument. The next step rests entirely with the Commission, local attorneys point out.

Mrs. Hubert Boyer returned from St. Louis Sunday, where she had been to a hospital for observation. The report is very satisfactory. Mary Kathryn Boyer, the young daughter, is threatened with appendicitis and is being kept in ice packs to avoid an operation.

SIKESTON BOYS' BAND IS BEGUN TUESDAY NIGHT

NINETEEN LADS SIGNIFY
INTENTION

A boys' band for Sikeston is practically assured following a meeting at the Armory Tuesday night, stated Instructor Carl C. Sergeant, who is attempting to organize such a group here.

Ten youngsters appeared ready for action, he stated, and nine others signified their intention of joining the band next week, Tuesday, the next regular meeting night. "This," he said, "gives us a group of nineteen or twenty boys who really wish to get together and devote their time and talent to learning a band instrument and forming a live wire boys' band."

Mr. Sergeant has been unusually successful in organizing similar bands, and predicts a local group of at least 30 pieces even during vacation months.

Members of the Henry Medtrum Post of the American Legion drum and bugle corps have contacted Mr. Sergeant with a proposition to instruct members of that organization. The Legionnaires have been "in the money" several times in various State and district contests, but in each instance the musical repertoire, or lack of it, prevented classification in the top group. Sergeant has signified his willingness to help the Legionnaires in that respect, and is assured of their moral and actual support in building a boys' band.

"I have never worked in a town before in which civic organizations seemed as willing to back a movement," stated the master musician in commenting upon his reception here.

Members of the band will meet at the Armory again next Tuesday night, 7:30 o'clock in order to perfect the organization. All boys with any musical ability whatever are requested to attend, and lend their assistance to the movement.

STATE OFFERS $300
REWARD FOR SLAYERS
OF FOUR OFFICERS

Jefferson City, June 21. A State reward of $300 each for the apprehension and conviction of the "slayer or slayers" of two Kansas City detectives, a Federal Department of Justice agent and the McAlester, Okla., chief of police at Kansas City Saturday, was announced today by Gov. Park. The reward offer is good for a year and will be paid by the State on final conviction.

Mrs. Edwin Eggers and son of Elmwood, Neb., arrived Thursday to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Elkins.

NEW FARM LOAN ASSOCIATION IS READY TO ACT

WELTECKE HEADS "BANK" TO
REFINANCE DEBTS

The Sikeston National Farm Loan Association with offices in the Peoples Bank Building, this city, is ready to function, according to Roscoe H. Weltecke, president and H. A. Smith, secretary and treasurer.

The new association was organized Tuesday at a meeting of land owners and farmers in the Chamber of Commerce rooms here, with O. J. Lloyd, vice-president and secretary of the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis present to explain the form of operation, and to assist with the work of organizing. The National Farm Loan Association operates through the Federal Land Bank, it was pointed out.

The following officers were selected: Roscoe H. Weltecke, local lumber dealer, president; Louis Dumey, farmer, vice-president, and H. A. Smith, secretary and treasurer. The directors selected a loan committee of three naming W. H. Sikes investigator for this group.

Directors of the organization who will serve until January, 1934 follow: Judge J. E. LaRue of Essex, John L. Crutcher of Essex, Albert J. Rushing of Bertrand, Louis Dumey and Roscoe H. Weltecke of Sikeston.

The Farm Loan Association is now ready to take applications for farm loans in this district which embraces all of Scott, Stoddard, Mississippi and two north townships in New Madrid County. Offices of the secretary are maintained at the Peoples Bank Building, corner of Center and North New Madrid Streets.

ANOTHER GAS HIKE

Gasoline prices advanced another cent per gallon Wednesday morning at each of the 28 stations of major companies operating in Sikeston. The new price followed closely upon two fractional advances of one-half cent each. The first hike was prompted by the new Federal gasoline tax, and the latter benefitted oil companies, making the rate effective Wednesday morning 12.8 cents for "depression" gasoline, 13.8 cents for regular, and 16.3 for high test.

Interested people are attempting a 61 Highway organization to influence traffic from Louisiana, Texas and other Southwest States to use this highway to points north and east. The reason is plain. The more traffic over 61, the more sale of oil, repairs, food, etc., necessary along the route. West Memphis, Ark., is the point from which traffic is routed either over 51 north on the east side of the Mississippi River or over 61 on the west side. The AAA Association is using its influence to send traffic over 51 for the reason a speed trap is reported at one point in Arkansas and at Sikeston, where constables cause arrests. Recently Brown Jewell, constable at Sikeston, followed three boys from Texas to within four miles of Benton in order to make an arrest and they were taken before Squire Gupton at Morley and paid something like $15 for reckless driving. Jewell said they were not driving on the right side of the black line. Jewell likewise said he followed a car into Benton and arrested the driver for speeding. This leads to the question of whether or not Constable Jewell did not follow these cars north of Sikeston in order to watch and see if they did not do something in order to make an arrest for the fee he would receive.

POLITICAL MUSHWA FROM JEFFERSON CITY

Wilbur C. Buford, of Ellington, State Game and Fish Commissioner, has been appointed by the United States Department of Agriculture as procurement officer for federal conservation projects in this State. Commissioner Buford, who will have charge of the purchase of all supplies and equipment for the conservation camps, will be assisted by Joe E. Green of Centralia, chief of wardens of the game and fish bureau. Buford, who is the youngest game and fish commissioner in Missouri history, has entered into his new work with a spirit that is attracting wide attention. He is devoting virtually sixteen hours daily to his various duties and is amply justifying his appointment by Governor Park. Gene Preston, Norborne newspaper editor, who was recently named as secretary of the department, is also working hard and taking his new duties seriously. Since his appointment he has visited many of the State parks in various sections and is editing a department news letter each week that is far superior to those of other years.

Mrs. Ralph P. Swofford of Kansas City, secretary of the Missouri Democratic State Committee and for many years an outstanding Democratic woman organizer, has been rewarded with a federal position by President Roosevelt. Mrs. Swofford, who has been in charge of State Democratic headquarters at Columbia since the last campaign, is to be a member of the United States Employee's Compensation Commission, succeeding Mrs. Bessie P. Brueggman of St. Louis. She will receive an annual salary of $8,000 and will be required to live in Washington. Democratic women of Missouri will be pleased at the recognition accorded Mrs. Swofford, who possesses the ability and experience to fill the position in a commendable way. She organized the Women's Jeffersonian Democratic Club in Kansas City in 1924, which order now has a membership in excess of 700 and is active in every campaign.

Governor Guy B. Park in a recent address before the annual convention of the Missouri Disciples of Christ at Moberly asserted that the "law books could be burned, the courts turned into factories and the police discharged if mankind would observe the rules of conduct prescribed by the Ten Commandments." Gov. Park, who has been an active member of the Christian church for years, also said: "As a man of the world who has been both good and bad, I say to you that the only real pleasures of this life, the only real good, genuine successes and great achievements, may be obtained only by a faithful following of the precepts and examples of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ." It was the chief executive's first lay sermon and it won for him a host of admirers and friends, especially among the clergy of the State.

Missourians like their beer and the revenue from its sale is pouring into the State coffers at Jefferson City. The May report of Charles H. Manville, pure food and drug commissioner, discloses that a total of 1,911,793 gallons of beer were consumed in the State during that period. And the inspection tax of one cent per gallon brought in $19,117.93 of revenue in the month. Seven breweries now have permits to operate in Missouri and permits are expected to be issued to three or four other companies in the near future.

Eppa F. Elliott of Mexico, for many years circuit clerk of Audrain County, is the new clerk of the Missouri Supreme Court, having been elected to that position early this month. Mr. Elliott, who was chosen for a term of six years, has long been prominent in Democratic politics in Central Missouri and is eminently qualified and deserving in every respect. During the several terms that he served as circuit clerk in Audrain he became thoroughly acquainted with court procedure and the experience gained in that period will be of great value in his new office. He will succeed Jacob D. Allen of Butler, clerk of the court for more than twenty-three years, who was not a candidate for re-election.

"Capt." Allen, as he is generally known over the State, has rendered the Supreme Court loyal and satisfactory service and his retirement will be regretted by all. The appointment of Elliott, however, is regarded as an excellent one and both the new clerk and the justices of the high State tribunal are deserving of congratulations.

The resignation of John H. Porter of St. Louis as a member of the Missouri Public Service Commission, which was announced recently, will be a source of genuine regret to Missourians. Judge Porter, as he is better known, has been connected with the commission for more than five years and has rendered the State and its people able and conscientious service. During the Caulfield administration he was reappointed for a term ending in April, 1937, but elected to resign in order to enter private business in St. Louis, where he will soon open an engineering office. A Democrat who has always contributed generously of his time and means for the advancement of his party and a public official who has never swerved from the path of duty and conscience, his resignation is a distinct loss both to Missouri and to the Democratic party.

MISSOURI HISTORY

Courtesy Missouri Historical Society

(Floyd C. Shoemaker)

It is now well over three quarters of a century since the will of Bryan Mullaphy, circuit judge and mayor of St. Louis, was admitted to probate in St. Louis on June 19, 1851, the anniversary of which recurs this week. But unlike most wills, this one has been a storm center of legal controversy from that day in 1851 until the present. Bryan Mullaphy's will created what became the Mullaphy Emigrant Relief Fund, which has caused almost continuous legal suits, and has attracted attention throughout the United States.

In 1847, Bryan Mullaphy, enjoying a notable career as a lawyer and judge in St. Louis, was elected mayor of the city with almost unparalleled unanimity. The years he was in office saw great numbers of emigrants passing thru St. Louis to the West, some to settle land, and others to join the rush to the gold fields of California. Cholera was a great scourge to these emigrants, and often in their camps about St. Louis, hundreds of poor travellers would be prostrated with disease.

With cholera raging at its worst, Bryan Mullaphy visited the camps of the emigrants daily, helping the unfortunates as best he could. It was at this time that he saw at first hand the needs of dire poverty, which his own wealth had never subjected him to. Probably as he helped the suffering emigrants, the thought came to him how he might dispose of a part of his wealth.

The story is that on August 31, 1849, Mullaphy asked a friend to take a social drink with him. The two entered a saloon and while drinking, the mayor asked the proprietor for a piece of writing paper. None could be found, but Mullaphy picked up a book and tearing out the fly-leaf, proceeded to write his last will and testament. In it he stipulated that he left one-third of his property to the city of St. Louis in trust, to be used to furnish relief to poor emigrants to the West.

Shortly after this, Bryan Mullaphy died at St. Louis on June 15, 1851, at the age of only forty-two years. Mullaphy's heirs tried to have the part of the will creating the trust set aside on the grounds that the city was incompetent to take the trust, and that the will was void, by reason of uncertainty as to whom the beneficiaries were. The attempt failed, and the city received in trust, property valued then at approximately $500,000, but it was not put to work until after the beginning of the Civil War.

The career of the Mullaphy Emigrant Relief fund has been long beset by court battles, sometimes by Mullaphy's heirs, sometimes by the city itself, and even by both together. The whole battle has been vastly complicated by the fact that westward emigration has practically ceased. One of the latest battles to set aside the will was in 1930, with approximately 200 heirs eligible to a possible division of the fund. The fund then amounted to more than $1,000,000.

Bryan Mullaphy was the son of John Mullaphy, the first Missouri millionaire. Bryan was the only son of the family, born at Baltimore in 1809, but he had seven sisters. The boy was educated in France and England and came to St. Louis where he studied law and was admitted to the bar. It is said that the father expected him to return from Europe a highly polished gentleman. But on the way home up the river from New Orleans the boat was stopped by floating ice and the passengers had to land and proceed by road to St. Louis. Bryan bought a mule to make the journey, but arrived in St. Louis covered from head to foot with mud. The father was so disappointed with his appearance that he left the son out of his will. The sisters, however, gave Bryan an equal share.

Many are the stories in St. Louis records of the eccentricities of Bryan Mullaphy. He is pictured as extremely careless in dress. At times he walked the streets playing a banjo to the wonderment of the observers. But for all his eccentric ways, particularly the unusual ways in which he dispensed charity, he was a brilliant and gifted man. It is claimed that he studied law by himself without entering a lawyer's office for guidance, and though not an eloquent orator, he was a fluent and impressive speaker.

Mullaphy was a studious man of robust health. His great wealth did not prevent him from actively practicing law in St. Louis, St. Charles, Franklin, Washington and Jefferson counties. In 1840 he was elected judge of the St. Louis Circuit Court, which office he held until 1844. Judge Mullaphy was never married.

Dwight H. Brown is rendering 24-hour service every day of the year. An official of the department is kept on duty each night so that police officials may obtain information relative to any automobile license number at any hour. The desired information may be secured in a minute's time and this new service will be of great aid and assistance to peace authorities in the apprehension of law violators who employ motor cars in their trade. Secretary Brown is being generally commended over the State for inaugurating this all-time service.

Col. Marvin Casteel, the new superintendent of the State Highway Patrol, is going to appear regularly in the regular uniform of members of his organization. Col. Casteel takes the position that it will improve the morale of the patrol if he is attired in uniform instead of civilian clothes, the custom of his predecessor. Casteel has also vetoed the idea of new patrol machines of black and white, holding that they would be both too conspicuous on the highways and that such colors would make it appear as if the patrol were "showing off". Missouri can be proud that it has at the head of its State police a level-headed young war veteran of dynamic personality, keen judgment and unusual ability. The highway patrol is expected to make marked advancement under his jurisdiction.

Cards Take Game From Paragould Sunday 8 to 2

Charleston, June 18.—The Charleston Cardinals won their sixth straight and their seventh victory out of eight starts, here this afternoon, winning over the Paragould, Ark., All-Stars, 8-2.

Starting off the game with six runs in their half of the first inning, the Cardinals played air-tight ball until the seventh and eighth inning, when the visitors tallied one run in each stanza. In the seventh an error, coupled with two stolen bases, and a single accounted for the first run. In the eighth, a triple, and an infield out caused the second run for the visitors.

For Charleston, four bases on balls, a single, error and triple by Myers with the bases loaded accounted for six runs. In the fifth, an error and two singles scored the other two runs.

Ault started on the mound for Charleston and allowed one run, two hits, walked three men, hit one, and struck out three batters in seven innings. This is his sixth victory of the season against no defeats. May finished the game and allowed one run, two hits, struck out two, walked one. Ault was pulled out of several holes by twin killings. Charleston's making three. Faulkner, Arkansas pitcher, allowed 7 hits, 8 runs, walked 4, struck out 7 and aided by one doubled play.

Munger, center fielder for Charleston, was the leading hitter, getting two singles out of four times at the plate. Myers, left fielder tripled with the bases loaded. Mast, Hearnes, Hudson and Ault got the other Charleston hits. Yantiz and McDonald, for the visitors, each tripled, and Wright and Faulkner singled for the Paragould hits.

As I See It

—By—
Art L. Wallhausen

Ben Garavelli, known throughout the Middle West as a restaurateur, and more particularly in St. Louis by city folk and country visitors alike, for tasty and appetizing dishes, is dead. Ben died Monday at the age of 52 years.

Especially delicious are two items on the Garavelli menu, tomato soup and ravioli.

Success magazines could use this famous Italian as the basis of an interesting article. Coming to this country as a penniless immigrant about thirty years ago, he remained in New York for about fifteen years, then came to St. Louis and joined his brothers, Charles and Joseph in the business of serving good food in an excellent manner.

Our research department reports that Sikeston has eight barber shops and a total of 24 men behind the chairs. This count does not include another half dozen female beauty shops, with their array of talented snippers, masseurs, dyers, tinters and what nots.

The faults of a one-man organization are very much in evidence just now. No group should be organized along that line for when the leader steps down there is nobody, not even a skeleton to rattle around and take up the work.

An efficient organization will not miss seriously any particular unit. Sikeston civic and social groups should keep that in mind. And another thing to dodge is not to encourage the "Let George Do It Idea". A committee of ten should be able to accomplish ten times as much as a committee of one. And will if properly trained and instructed.

People are pretty much alike. Each one likes to do a specific task

forming us that she will not pay the war debt.

Suppose some of the dries will be very much elated to hear that three beer permits were revoked because of the owners selling beer more than 3.2 content. Some of our local dries will be more than elated for one of the violators was from Caruthersville. Personally, we're ashamed of him. Imagine getting a permit to sell beverages of more than 3.2 when it has been done for nothing. tsh, tsh.

Jos. L. Matthews was quite exercised not long ago when we quoted one of his friends as saying that he (J. L.) intended to install a large exhaust fan in the armory. Jos. informed us privately, and in no uncertain terms, that he would have the building rewired for additional fans.

We notice with a great amount of comfort and satisfaction, that the Armory has been rewired . . . and how. Outlets sufficient to accommodate about 24 or 30 fans are in place . . . and a big paddle fan, ceiling type, graces the central position of the Armory ceiling. We still think a 36-inch fan would help a lot!

Years ago a city statute provided that each ordinance must be read by the clerk at each of three consecutive meetings.

That was done for the obvious reason of preventing the "railroad-

through" of some particular bit of legislation.

Part of that statute still remains. Under the ritual of business the clerk must drone through three readings at the SAME sessions, and when the ordinance in question happens to run eight, ten or fifteen typewritten pages—well it is very hard on the nerves of the clerk and the patience of his listeners.

Once is plenty unless the old system of waiting three months, or three consecutive meetings is to be invoked again.

A $2.00 Dinner for 6

ALL the way from tomato juice to demi-tasse with steak and shoe-string potatoes, buttered broccoli and bread and butter and a delicious dessert sandwiched in between—that's what this dinner, which will cost an average of a little more than thirty-three cents a person in most communities, offers. Here's the menu:

iced Tomato Juice 17¢
Minute Steak 60¢
Shoe-String Potatoes 10¢
Buttered Broccoli 50¢
Apricot Cream Dessert 48¢
Bread and Butter 10¢
Demi-tasse 5¢

And here are the recipes for the dishes which are not familiar to everyone:

Iced Tomato Juice: Mix together the contents of two 12½-

ounce cans tomato juice, salt and pepper to taste, two teaspoons sugar, a few drops Worcestershire sauce and a few drops tobacco sauce, and chill thoroughly.

Apricot Cream Dessert: Beat one cup cream, and add one-third cup confectioner's sugar, a few drops of almond flavoring and one-fourth cup chopped nuts. Break up four vanilla wafers and add, and put in the refrigerator tray for several hours. Scoop out onto dessert plates, and lay the drained apricots from a No. 2 can around the base.

If desired, a fruit cocktail can be substituted for the tomato juice. Use the syrup from the canned apricots, pep up with lemon juice and add a couple of diced bananas and a diced apple to make enough for six.

Washington Comment

On the fourteenth of June, 1777, Congress officially adopted the stars and stripes as the banner of the nation, and early in August of that year, the new flag was first flown in battle, at Fort Stanwix on the Mohawk River, in the State of New York. Although the general design has remained unaltered, the United States never has had precisely the same flag in any two wars. Of all the poets who made the flag a theme for their verse, Francis Scott Key is best known. His house in Washington was torn down a few years ago to make room for the abutments of a new bridge, but his last resting place, at Frederick, Md., is within an hour's drive for those Washingtonians who care for a patriotic pilgrimage on Flag Day.

A picture of Mr. Venizelos, former premier of Greece, and prominent European diplomat, shows that he looks a good deal like Geo. Bernard Shaw. Perhaps the man who took a shot at Mr. Venizelos lately may simply have been a joke-wreary soul who got into trouble through an error in identity.

It was not at the eleventh hour, but more exactly speaking, at tenthirty at night, that the Senate passed the National Industry Recovery Bill, by a vote of 57 to 24. An analysis of the provisions of the measure would fill more space than can be allotted to it here. It is sufficient to state that the President is authorized to establish a code of fair competition for any line of business, and that such business may be carried on only under federal license. The interest in the act centers less in its exact terms than in the possibilities of its application and enforcement. Such matters as the control of the grade of a product, hours of labor, price and shop conditions do not appear to be beyond its contemplation. What the Senate disposed of almost as a matter of routine on a hot June night in 1933, may be looked back upon as the most important piece of legislation of the decade, of the century, or even of the entire history of legislative enactment in America.

Members of the Morgan firm are serving as directors in more than eighty-five corporations. The unemployment fog still hangs in the valleys, but the mountain tops seem to be reasonably clear.

It seems as though the chief business of the World Economic Conference was to persuade the United States that it would have to accept ten per cent or nothing.

There is a grim sternness to be read between the lines of the account of a plane crash at Chicago, which took a toll of seven lives.

Man covers acres of ground with exhibition buildings to show what he has accomplished, but the elements sprinkle them with airplane wreckage as a none too gentle reminder that he still has something to learn.

Miss Dorothy Walker is visiting with Miss Della Hunt of St. Louis this week. She is expected home, Sunday.

"As I See It—"

(By Art L. Wallhausen)

The Man About Town this week saw several Sikestonians sprinkling lawns. In each case from six to a dozen neighborhood youngsters rallied round and stood for some time under the cooling spray.

That brings up a project which we would like to delegate to the Lions Club, and call to the attention of the City Fathers.

Why not construct two sprinkling devices to be hooked to fire plugs so that youngsters in Doz Trot, Frisco, the Shoe Factory Addition, and Northeast section can cool off three or four times a week? The cost would be small and boyhood the response would be great.

Lon Swanner has stated to this scribe that his department could furnish water free because plugs have to be flushed anyway. Now, you Lions, get busy. A gang of kids can be made happy. Doc Limbaugh stated this morning that some of his larger Scouts might be talked into supervising the sprinklers from time to time.

Gasoline has advanced two cents per gallon during the past week. One-half cent of that amount goes into the Federal treasury in the form of a tax payment. One and one-half cent goes to enrich oil companies.

During the past year every major oil company cancelled every retail contract in the country. The cry was "We can't make it". The contracts were rewritten and the small and large retailer, known ordinarily as filling station operators, sold gasoline at one-half cent per gallon less, speaking now of profit.

With this cut to the retailer came also a series of cuts to tank wagon men, drivers and others until one of the boys expressed his opinion thusly: "I didn't mind taking one cut after another until I am just about breaking even, but I'll be so and so if I'm gonna borrow money and pay interest to pay 'em for the privilege of working".

That ladies and gentleman is our private analysis of the gasoline industry.

The speech of the incoming Lions President was short and to the point Wednesday night. It had to be. His vocabulary was cut in twain. There were ladies present!

BLONDIE the FOLLIES

FRANCES MARION

Published by arrangement with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

By FRANCES MARION
From Which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Has Made a Thrilling Motion Picture Starring Frances Marion Davies.

CHAPTER XXVIII

Blondie hesitated just long enough in front of Child's restaurant to buy an evening paper. Tucking it under her arm she pushed through the swinging doors into the bright lights. With a little smile she acknowledged the greeting of the cashier, and walked across the dining room to her favorite table in the far corner.

"Good evening," Miss McClune, said the waitress, handing her a menu. "Been warm today, hasn't it?"

"Yes . . . very," replied Blondie, as she studied the menu.

"Some friends of mine went to the Follies last night and saw your specialty number . . . They raved about it . . . Said you did those intricate steps so easy . . ."

"Thanks . . . they were very kind."

"They said there must be some trick to it," the waitress interrupted. "But I told 'em how well I knew you and how hard you worked."

Blondie looked up questioningly, then gave her order quickly. As the waitress went toward the kitchen Blondie looked after her quizzically.

When, after all, she was right, Blondie thought with a faint smile. Those were the people who knew Blondie McClune of the Follies best.

to Larry instead of battling it out alone? . . . told him she loved him . . . that she wanted to get away from the gay life just as much as he did . . . but there was Lurline . . . always Lurline. Well, it was too late now . . . too late.

Blondie just nibbled at the food the waitress brought. Dry sobs clutched at her throat. Even if it was too late for Larry, it was never too late for Pratt! Larry and Pratt! . . . two men . . . so alike and yet so different to her, anyway.

Why hadn't she listened to Pratt and gone back? . . . Why hadn't she accepted that exquisite creation from Cartier's he had had made for her . . . why? Blondie asked herself now, but she knew . . . she knew why then, and she knew she would do the same thing again! It wasn't the life for her, but Larry . . .

Blondie's mind was in a whirl as she asked for her check and hurried to the cashier's desk. She paid her bill and walked to the theatre—thinking, thinking, thinking.

In the dressing room she noticed that the other girls were nearly dressed for the first number. She had spent more time over her dinner than she thought! Except for the briefest of greetings Blondie spoke to no one. She noticed that Lurline was in her place across the room, but she didn't attempt to talk to her. Conversation between the two girls had been extremely limited for some time, so no one noticed it.

Quickly Blondie undressed and slipped into her dressing gown.

Blondie noticed that the other girls were nearly dressed for the first number.

With swift and expert fingers she applied her make-up. Before the last girl had reached the great stage for the first number, Blondie was in her place, fully costumed.

The opening number completed, Blondie was stopped by the head electrician, who told her of some new lighting effects that had been ordered for her specialty dance. Blondie listened, almost without hearing, then hurried to the dressing room to change.

Girls in various stages of undress were sitting before shining mirrors clustered with electric light bulbs. Blondie went directly to her table, then looked over for Lurline. Her place was vacant.

"Where's Lurline?" she asked the girl next to her.

"She's over at the speakeasy—she changed quickly."

Another girl spoke up, "Larry Belmont's over there."

"Oh, yes, he's leaving for Europe tonight," said the girl next to Blondie.

A third girl chimed in: "Lurline will be fired sure—that speak's out of bounds now."

"Nothing could stop her—she's stuck on that Larry!" piped up the first girl.

At that all the girls looked at Blondie, anticipating some reaction. But Blondie was changing hurriedly, covering her nervousness, and never let on she had heard.

"Who's he going to marry?" asked another girl.

Blondie's face would have been ghastly then but for her make-up. "Some society dame from Boston . . . but before the answer was completed Blondie had changed and hurried over to the wardrobe lady.

She whispered: "I'm going over to the speakeasy for a moment—call me when it's time . . ." and she ran out, throwing a coat around her.

At the head of the stairs leading to the stage Blondie slipped through a door which opened on a fire escape. She went a short distance along this, then entered another door which led into an anteroom of the speakeasy.

Golden Temple Of Jehol At Chicago's World's Fair Discloses Romantic Episodes Of Chinese Emperors

Chicago, May 20.—All the legendary glamour, mystic rites of the Lama and Buddhist religions, and romantic episodes in the lives of Emperors who once ruled Chinese millions, have been brought to life for the western world in the resplendent Golden Temple of Jehol, at Chicago's 1933 World's Fair, A Century of Progress, which opens May 27.

Around the famed Golden Pavilion are woven some of the most colorful and stirring chapters in Oriental history. Bloodshed, court intrigues, the love affairs of kings, and the beginnings of a religion that once swayed the millions, have their part in the story unfolded for the Exposition visitor.

The Chinese Lama temple, originally built in 1767 at Jehol, the summer palace of Manchu emperors, is now crumbling to ruins. Here in Chicago it has been faithfully reproduced and will be preserved on the shores of Lake Michigan for future generations.

Brought in 28,000 Pieces
It was brought over land and sea, with all its bright oriental reds and golds, by Dr. Sven Hedin, the famous Swedish explorer-author, for Vincent Bendix of Chicago. Reconstruction of the shrine in Jehol was the work of more than two years. More than 28,000 pieces of wood were cut and fashioned in fabricating the historic shrine.

Dr. Hedin was particularly suited for the task of seeking out a Chinese temple that would be typical of the Oriental type of architecture and at the same time tell something of the splendor and pomp of Celestial history.

While engaged in research work incidental to the building of the Lama shrine and in the collection of rare treasures which it houses, Dr. Hedin discovered many interesting facts concerning the decadence of Lamaism. He learned that while there were 600 Lamas, or priests of the faith in 1911, their number has diminished to 100 today. The earliest Lamaism, visitors to the Fair will be told, was a mixture of Buddhism and ancient native demon-worship, having been brought from India by Guru-Padma-Sambhava in 747. In its early history, a large number of complicated rites were developed, in which mystic adjurations and sacrificial acts predominated.

Rose to Great Influence

Lamaism rose to great political influence during the thirteenth century when Kubla Khan, Emperor of China, gave it his sanction and protection. In 1261, the emperor recognized the religion after representatives of other faiths had been given an opportunity to compete for the honor in demonstrations of miracle-working and mysticism.

In succeeding centuries, the idea grew that Lamas, or high priests, were emanations from the gods, and had been reincarnated to protect religion on earth. The number of these "living gods" increased very rapidly until they occupied prominent places in almost all large temples in Tibet and Mongolia.

The Mongolians were converted to Lamaism for the second time about 1570, when Dalai Lama, the First, made a ceremonious visit to the King of the Tumed-Mongolians in the temple city of Kukulukhote. Since that day the Mongolians have been ardent worshippers of the Lamaistic gods.

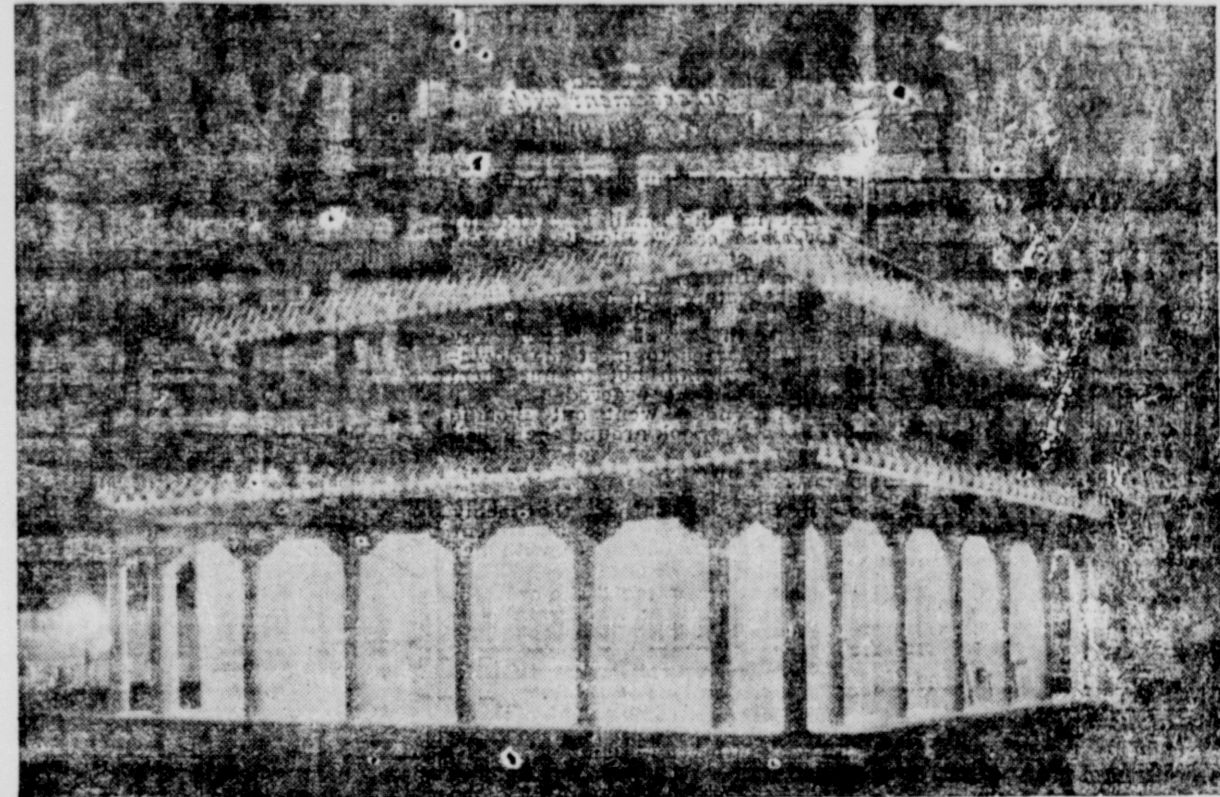

The Chinese Emperors of the Manchu dynasty, who ruled until China became a republic in 1911, found it to be highly politic to support Lamaism. The religion had a brilliant era of greatness in the reign of Ch'ien-Lung, 1736-96, under whose patronage the original Golden Pavilion of Jehol was built.

Treasures Unfolded

In its replica at A Century of Progress, temple bells, images of gods and dragons, prayer rugs, ceremonial robes, rare silks and tapestries and other treasures unfold for the Occidental visitors the colorful story of romance and intrigue that was enacted in and about the shrine during the centuries.

The student will find much to interest him in the Lama Temple, aside from the stories of court intrigue and romance woven around its existence. At the entrance is a "Laughing Buddha" made of solid wood covered with red gold lacquer, sitting on a broad chair of the same material.

Replica of the Golden Temple of Jehol, celebrated Chinese Lama Temple, at Chicago's 1933 World's Fair as viewed at night. It is a reproduction of the place of worship of the Manchu emperors.

THE SALESMAN OF THE FUTURE

There are two possible viewpoints to every sale. One is that of the manufacturer or merchant solely concerned with finding an outlet for his goods. The other is that of the consumer whose interest lies not so much in the material thing purchased as in the service he can expect from it. Salesmanship must bring these two viewpoints into focus to make a complete picture. This is not a new idea, but it is one that will gain ground because in the long run it is the most effective selling. America's foremost automobile manufacturer has always had this kind of salesmanship in mind. When he sold his first motor-car he was not content until he had hunted up a nearby blacksmith and showed him how to take the car apart and put it together so that he could fix it if anything went wrong. He has always been more concerned with what the purchaser can do with the car than whether he could make a sale. Out of the hundreds of makes of motor-cars built and advertised in the last quarter of a century, those which have been supported with competent service systems.

Advertising, which is an integral part of modern salesmanship, likewise increases in value as it takes into account the consumer's side of the transaction. The most effective advertising is the most informative. Advertising which simply urges people to buy goods, will have no place in the selling advertising of the future. Advertising will sell just as salesmen will sell, by interpreting goods in terms of usefulness or desirability to the consumer. Advertising will tell consumers how to use goods more efficiently, more thoroughly, how to take care of them, how to repair them, how to get the most of value and service out of them. And advertising of this kind will be—today—more profitable than any circus stunt or ballyhoo that can be devised. To manufacturers of real purpose and with this broader salesmanship in their scheme, The Sikeston Standard offers a well-organized and experienced advertising service. This advertising-business organization, now number a trained personnel, has grown steadily for twenty years through its adherence to sound principles of publishing.

Those who compose the class are Misses Kathryn Clark, Dessie Hydrick, Irene McDaniel, Lillian Rita Derris, Betty Fisher, Patsy Ruth Gentles, Vonda Lee Lafey, Bettie Gross, Colleen Rayburn, Helen Vera Dudley, and Billie Van Arsdale, Roger Fisher, Marvin Rayburn and Billie Malone.

Mrs. Lorena Hamby Undergoes Operation

Mrs. Lorena Hamby, who has been living at Fort Worth, Texas with her daughter, Mrs. Pearl Novak, and at Waco with her son, Mike, underwent a successful operation Tuesday morning at the Methodist Hospital, Fort Worth. According to a letter received here Thursday morning by Jesse Hamby, another son, Mrs. Hamby rallied splendidly following the operation and is expected to recuperate nicely. The operation for the removal of her gall bladder and appendix consumed one hour and 45 minutes.

Miss Dixie Massingale Married June 17

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Massingale Wednesday announced the marriage of their daughter, Dixie Virginia, to Stanley Kilburn of Springfield, Mo. The ceremony was solemnized at 4 o'clock Saturday, June 17 in Springfield at the home of Mrs. Paul Lohmeyer, sister of the bride. Dr. S. F. Reipma of Christ's Episcopal church officiated, with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lohmeyer as attendants. A few other close relatives were also present for the wedding.

Following a wedding supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lohmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Kilburn left for a two weeks' honeymoon trip.

Mrs. Kilburn is a graduate of the Southeast Missouri Teachers' College at Cape Girardeau, and has taught school in the high schools at Fruitland and Desloge, Mo. Mr. Kilburn attended Southwest State Teachers' College and the University of Missouri. He is now manager of the Meyer-Blankle Wholesale Company in Springfield, where the young couple will make their home at 1517 Benton Street.

Several games were played and refreshments were served. Mrs. Arnett, hostess, was assisted by her sister, Mrs. M. L. DeLoache of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. E. Duncan.

Those present were Misses Nell Rose of McMullin, Elsie Couch, Eliza Duncan, Helen Lee, Camille Henley, Catherine Sneed, Edna Beck, Velma Mays, Hazel Beck, Mary Louise, Edna and Lucille Arnett, Rev. J. A. Duncan and wife, Leonard Hornback, Taty Hahn, Reece Hart, Marshall Duncan and Raymond Arnett.

Dance Club Hop Is Enjoyable Affair

Members of the Dance Club of 1933 and others of Sikeston and vicinity enjoyed an Armory dance last Wednesday night with a 14-piece all-girl band furnishing the music. The Co-Eds formed an important unit of a road show which played Tuesday and Wednesday night at the Malone Theatre here.

A number of ladies met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. F. Baker on Ruth Street for the purpose of organizing a club. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Judson Boardman; vice-president, Mrs. Dave Reese; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. T. F. Baker; reporter, Mrs. W. W. Lankford; chairman, flower committee, Mrs. Gust Zacher. A name for the club will be decided upon at a later date. After the business session, a pleasant social hour was enjoyed, during which several contests were played. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of the President, Mrs. Boardman, Wednesday afternoon, July 19. Those present besides the hostess were: Mrs. Dave Reese, Mrs. Judson Boardman, Mrs. Eli Williams, Mrs. Gust Zacher, Mrs. W. W. Lankford, Mrs. Ben Carroll, Mrs. E. A. Bandy, Mrs. Doc Watson, Mrs. Jake Sutton and one visitor, Mrs. Nellie Atkinson. Other members, who were not present, are: Mrs. Fred Jones and Mrs. Arthur Reese.

Lyman Bowman and Murray Phillips went to Chicago Tuesday to attend a Millers' Meeting. They will return home today (Friday). Miss Edith Darby is on the sick list.

Misses Marie and Dimple Patterson and Ara Bell Blackburn were in Cape Girardeau last Saturday. Misses Patterson and Blackburn returned home, while Miss Dimple remained for a two weeks' visit with relatives. Felton McClain came to Sikeston with them for a two weeks' visit with his aunt, Mrs. L. B. Patterson and family.

Miss Lillian Feltner, a student at the Jade Beauty school, Cape Girardeau, spent last week-end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Feltner.

Mrs. Morse P. Tinder and children of Poplar Bluff and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Keller and children of Cape Girardeau visited the ladies' mother, Mrs. Sallie Swanagon, on Wednesday.

Miss Nadine Sellards, who is attending the Junior College at Flat River, came down yesterday to visit until Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sellards.

NEW OFFICERS TAKE CHARGE IN LIONS CLUB

"LADIES' NIGHT" PROGRAM WEDNESDAY

A unique and clever program of fun and serious talks marked the annual installation of new officers and directors in the Lions' Club Wednesday night at the Hotel Marshall dining room. The program was witnessed by twenty members and twenty-five guests including wives and sweethearts.

The retiring officers include Jno. G. Powell, president, who briefly reviewed an unusually active tenure of office. The complete list of achievements and activities will be presented in a subsequent issue of this newspaper. Other officers placed on the ex-service list are H. C. Young, F. D. Lair and Thomas B. Dudley, vice-president; E. F. Schorle, den keeper; Clay Mitchell, lion tamer and Duree Medley, tail twister.

10-year Secretary

Ralph Anderson, re-installed as secretary of the Lions Club Wednesday night, begins his tenth term in the capacity of secretary and treasurer, a post which he first accepted in June, 1921. "The passing years have made quite a change in the personnel and membership of the Club, but one noticeable feature is the fact that the outstanding business leaders of the community, past and present are recorded on the roster of the Club", stated Anderson, who takes considerable pride in the neatly typed record book.

Retiring directors are J. E. Harper and C. C. White. The incoming slate is headed by Charles L. Blanton, Jr., who will be assisted by E. F. Schorle, M. M. Beck and Joe Sarsar, vice-presidents; Ralph F. Anderson, secretary and treasurer; L. D. Gmeiner, tail twister, O. T. Elder, lion tamer and Ted Kirby, den keeper.

Visiting guests artists included Mrs. Bess Elder, Cookie Cook, Jo Smith and Virginia Baker.

Initiation of new members was conducted by the Benton Lions Club delegation headed by R. L. Purry, and Ed Tirmenstein. Mr. and Mrs. Alden Pinney of Benton also attended. After the fun of mock initiation, Rev. E. H. Orear, local Methodist pastor and honor-member of the Club, gave a brief, serious talk on the idealism, purpose and function of Lionism.

Mrs. C. D. Matthews, Jr., Mrs. Murray Phillips, Mrs. E. C. Matthews and children, Miss Olga and Edward, left yesterday afternoon for Chicago to attend the World's Fair. From Chicago Mrs. E. C. Matthews and children will go to Santa Monica, Calif., to visit with her sister, Miss Lillian Bergmann. They will be gone until September. Mrs. C. D. Matthews and Mrs. Phillips will return to Sikeston after about a 10-day stay at the exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Feeward, who have been living in the Keith apartment are now living in the Noble apartment on South Kingshighway.

MERCHANTS TO GIVE AWAY $300 IN GIFTS SAT.

FINAL EVENT OF SERIES IS SCHEDULED

A "Buy in Sikeston" campaign started shortly after the Drummers' Convention here three weeks ago will be concluded next Saturday afternoon when approximately $300 in merchandise will be given away free of charge, beginning at 4:30 o'clock at Railroad Park.

"The two previous events have consumed more time than could be allotted", stated Ernest Harper, chairman today, "so that in this final campaign many of the gifts have been consolidated making them more valuable. Among other first string items to be handed out is an electric vacuum cleaner, medicine cabinet, a nicely upholstered chair, and 50 grocery and merchandise baskets.

All persons who hold tickets are requested to be present on time Saturday afternoon in order to facilitate the work of the committee.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt has been acquitted of libeling Gus O. Nations, Anti-Saloon League official. What has become of the case of Herbert Nations for conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act? Others indicted with him, except one, have pleaded guilty to the charge.

Mrs. Clay A. Mitchell entertained at bridge yesterday afternoon. We are glad to report that Mrs. G. F. Pierce is still improving in health. Other members of the family, Mrs. Shannon and Miss Rebecca Pierce, are also improving.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moll of Jackson, who visited their sons, R. A. and Birch Moll and families, went to Bernie Wednesday to visit their nephew, Dr. Tom Allen and family. R. A. Moll took his parents to Sikeston, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Judson Boardman, Mrs. Jake Sutton and daughter, Miss Evelyn, were in Greenville, Tuesday to attend the funeral of Walter Rubottom. Mr. Rubottom was a cousin of Mesdames Boardman and Sutton.

GOLF CLUBS AND HIGH POWERED GUNS USED IN "MAN HUNT"

Sikeston Country Club members, a United States Marshall of Jackson, Mo., and Melvin Dace, State Highway Patrolman, wrote another chapter in the case of Marvin Lee McFadden late Thursday afternoon, when they staged a "man hunt" using weapons ranging from golf sticks to .30-30 rifles.

McFadden, who has been living in Dog Trot for the past several months, was arrested originally

May 8, 1932 for operating a passenger automobile on truck license plates. An investigation by Hubert Brooks and John Tandy later pointed the finger of suspicion more directly at McFadden, naming him as the owner of a stolen motor car.

McFadden was captured eventually after he jumped from a farm wagon at Matthews, and staged a running match with Trooper Brooks.

He has been out on bond since that time. Thursday evening, a U. S. Marshal attempted to escort

McFadden to court to answer the charge. He begged leave "to tell his wife and child goodbye". Then followed the race and subsequent chase through the Grover Baker farm, and the northwest section of town.

Golfers swinging clubs headed off the fleeing prisoner; the marshal and his assistants eventually flanked the man, and Dace, armed with a high-powered rifle, brought up the immediate rear. McFadden surrendered.

AUXILIARY NOTES

The American Legion Auxiliary held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Paul Galloway Wednesday evening with a good attendance. Reports of committees were received and plans for the 4th of July family picnic were completed. The Legionnaires and their families will spend the day on Castor River.

Mrs. Bill Sensenbaugh entertained at bridge Tuesday afternoon.

FARMER RIDES TOMATO PATCH OF CUT WORMS AT COST OF ONLY 75c

New Madrid, June 19.—Tab Moore of Kewanee reports almost perfect control of cut worms from the poisoned bran treatment of 2,000 tomato plants.

Mr. Moore says that before treatment the worms cut down an average of 80 plants per night. He applied the poison bait on Friday afternoon, and that Friday night the cut worms got 10 more plants. Since Friday night, he has not seen any plants eaten by cut worms or been able to find any live cut worms.

The formula used by Mr. Moore was as follows:

25 pounds bran, 1 pound Paris Green, ½ gallon cheap molasses, 2 gallons water.

The bran and Paris green were thoroughly mixed with dry and the molasses diluted with water. The bran was then moistened with the diluted molasses, and after standing a few hours, distributed over the field just before nightfall.

Mr. Moore states that the cost of the materials used on the 2000 tomato plants was 75c.

5 PCT. TAX ON CORPORATION DIVIDENDS NOW IN EFFECT

Washington, June 17.—All corporation dividends declared after 11:55 a. m., Eastern Standard time yesterday, must pay a 5 per cent tax to the Government.

The industrial recovery bill, which levied the tax on dividends to be deducted at the source, provided that it should take effect the instant the bill became a law.

The President signed the bill exactly five minutes before noon yesterday. Dividends declared before the signing are not taxable.

This feature of the new law was expected to raise $70,000,000 in new revenue.

Meanwhile, the Federal tax on one and one-half cent a gallon on gasoline went into effect last midnight. It is counted on to produce $62,000,000.

An excise tax of one-tenth of one per cent on the net worth of corporation capital stock is effective June 30. The Government hopes to receive $80,000,000 from this source.

In connection with this tax, an additional 5 per cent levy is placed on that portion of the corporation's net income exceeding 12½ per cent of the capital stock value.

WILL HOLD SEMO
OPEN TOURNNEY
JULY 2 TO 4

GOLFERS WILL PLAY ON
DEXTER LINKS

According to an announcement by W. B. Malone, president, and Morris Sisler, Secretary, the annual Southeast Missouri Golf Association invitation tournament for district amateurs will be held at Dexter, July 2, 3 and 4, this season.

Sisler in his official notification to the Sikeston Club mentions the central location of the Dexter course as a factor which "should attract 16 or more clubs in the tournament."

The matches will get underway Sunday, July 2, and will be concluded on July Fourth. Qualifying rounds totaling 18 holes can be played any time on Sunday or until 6 o'clock Monday evening. The final 36-hole competition will start Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock.

There will be at least four classes, according to the schedule: Championship, Class A, Class B and Class C. The first 16 low shooters in the qualifying rounds will make up the Championship Class and succeeding groups of 16 will make up the other classes.

The entire tourney cost will be met by charging an admittance fee of $2 per entrant.

The committee has provided for three prizes in each class. The amount of these prizes will be determined by the Executive Committee of the tournament, and according to the number of entries.

In connection with this annual invitation tournament, the president, Mr. Malone, points out the fact that the American Legion is having its annual District Convention in Dexter on July Fourth.

Prominent speakers, a large carnival, music, drum and bugle corps drills and other entertainment including a fireworks display will be provided.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL

The Miner Community will have an ice cream social at their church this Friday night to which the public is cordially invited.

Sikestonians who like to drive in the evening, should go that way, enjoy the refreshments and help the Community Chest.
